Millie Steals Jo-Ann's Heart

No longer inconsolable after the drowning of her dog, Billy, which fell through ice at Langford lake Wednesday, Jo-Ann Taylor, 10, welcomes new playmate, eight-week-old Millie. Little springer spaniel is an aristocrat, one of a litter of 11 pictured in The Daily Colonist six weeks ago. Kenneth, 9, and Beverley, 11, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Highton, 2046 Ferndale, gave Jo-Ann the pup. "And it got right into Billy's bed," the little girl cried excitedly. Colonist had offers of more than 50 dogs of all shapes and sizes for Jo-Ann.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

For Political Voice

Farm-Labor-CCF Alliance Wins IWA Convention Support

Action To Wait For Right Time

By BILL MAVOR
Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—Proposed formation of a new political alliance to give organized labor a direct voice in national politics was approved in principle here yesterday at the district convention of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

But action on the proposal offered by Vancouver and Courtenay locals was postponed for one year.

The plan calls for inception of a federated farm-labor party by amalgamation of farm organizations, the CCF and the trade union movement.

Delegates shelved the motion until next year's convention when Andy Smith, political action committee chairman, said the time is inopportune to bring such a matter before the Canadian Labor Congress, to be formed in April by the merger of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

ATTITUDE UNKNOWN

There is also no information at present on whether the CCF would go along with such a move, he explained.

Delegates, who became bogged down in lengthy debate on constitution and by-laws, voted to extend sessions to this morning to complete consideration of various committee reports and resolutions.

Joe Morris, IWA president, made it clear the union will continue organizational activities in Alberta where membership is now only 300 out of a potential 7,500.

When a delegate questioned whether organization in Alberta was advisable, Mr. Morris replied that a job couldn't be done by thinking of dollars and cents and that the IWA is prepared to fight for Alberta.

MOST ON COAST

IWA membership on the Pacific coast is 30,300 of a 34,650 potential. B.C. interior membership is 3,860 of a 7,500 potential.

Convention delegates voted to continue the $1-a-month strike fund assessment.

A-Bombs Patrol U.S. Skies

WASHINGTON (UP) — The air force hinted yesterday that its heavy bombers are patrolling the skies armed with atomic bombs ready to strike a devastating blow at any country that attacks the United States.

It also disclosed that fighter-interceptors guarding American cities against surprise attack soon will be armed with the latest type of nuclear weapons.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, air force chief of staff, threw out a broad hint that American bombers already are carrying nuclear bombs.

READY INSTANTLY

Discussing "the weapons carried in aircraft," he said "it is only common sense that whatever weapons our air force uses must be readily available" because "instant readiness means survival" in the atomic age.

In an apparent attempt to reassure the public about the danger of accidents, he said the air force has been in "the nuclear bomb business" for more than 10 years and the chances of accidental explosions are "so remote as to be incalculable."

Peron Blames 'Oil War'

MILAN, Italy (UP)—Juan D. Peron, writing in an Italian magazine, yesterday blamed The Vatican and an "oil war" between the United States and Britain for his ouster as president of Argentina.

MLA Going Back to School

He's been helping to make laws for several years and now Tony Gargrave, 29-year-old CCF MLA for Mackenzie riding, plans to go back to school in the fall to learn how to practice law. He will enroll at Victoria College with the goal of entering the legal profession by 1961. See story Page 13.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Choking Death Accident

Victor A. Bonnett, 212 Douglas, strangled to death after choking on his food in a restaurant at Maple Bay, near Duncan, Thursday night.

An inquest jury yesterday found he had met his death accidentally, while travelling the eight miles from Maple Bay to King's Daughters' hospital in Duncan.

Mr. Bonnett, an employee of Blue Bird Cabs here, was visiting Duncan with his wife, Martha.

The couple and two friends, W. G. McNiven of North Burnaby and Ernest Colclough of Haney, entered the Maple Inn for dinner about 8.45 p.m.

Logger Fights For His Life

Saanich logger Thomas Facey, 24, of 3855 Tillicum, who suffered severe brain injuries in a woods accident at Langford yesterday, was still fighting against heavy odds for his life late last night.

St. Joseph's Hospital authorities said he was still unconscious and in critical condition following prolonged brain surgery.

Archbishop Pleads For Humane Killing

Immediate introduction of legislation providing for humane slaughtering of animals was requested by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton in a letter to Premier W. A. C. Bennett yesterday.

The request came four days after Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC, Victoria) demanded similar legislation and urged a Royal commission into the slaughtering, handling and inspection of all meats for human consumption.

Full support for the archbishop's suggestion was voiced last night by the Canadian Council for Animal Welfare and the SPCA in Victoria.

"PAIN AND MISERY"

The archbishop said that for many years, he has been "saddened by the reflection that many unfortunate animals are subjected to much pain and misery."

He said many people feel that this "unnecessary suffering" is due to lack of modern, humane methods of slaughtering, such as those required by law in England and Australia.

"I would respectfully ask in the name of the Anglican Church, as well as for a great number of citizens, that legislation be introduced at once making the humane slaughtering of animals obligatory throughout our province," the archbishop said.

"All my clergy are in agreement with me in making this request—that those dumb creatures who minister to our comforts and necessities be treated with the utmost compassion."

LEAD ASKED

B.C. should lead the way in introduction of such legislation, said Mrs. Jan Zach, president of the animal welfare group. She felt the legislation could be incorporated into the provincial meat inspection act.

Difficulties are implementation of the legislation in isolated areas, and the expense of installing mechanical killing devices or gas chambers. In the case of gas chambers, carbon monoxide gas renders the animal unconscious, during which time it is killed.

Some B.C. packinghouses use "stunners" to kill animals, she said, but others "use the same methods for sheep and pigs that have been used for centuries; they cut the throats of sheep and hang pigs up alive, then cut off the meat."

Loves India

BILLY GRAHAM

Now touring India, where he has been speaking to audiences of 50,000 to 100,000, U.S. evangelist Billy Graham said Friday at New Delhi his reception was "overwhelming" and that he had "fallen in love" with the country.

Race Hatred Mars Spirit

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Racial bitterness dampened the Mardi Gras spirit yesterday.

A California band cancelled its trip to the spectacle because its two negro members would not be allowed to perform with the whites.

Senators Protest

Chinese Trade Hint Stirs Hornets' Nest

(From UP and CP)

WASHINGTON—Sir Anthony Eden touched off a round of protests in Congress yesterday by calling for a "step-by-step" relaxation of curbs on Allied trade with Red China.

The British prime minister told a news conference he had asked President Eisenhower to consider a plan to put trade with Red China "on a par" with western trade with Russia. He said present policy works hardships on Britain and other Empire nations.

Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have promised to study the proposal—which already is under fire from Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland and other advocates of a tough Red trade policy.

FIRMLY OPPOSED

Senator Styles Bridges of the Senate Republican policy committee, firmly opposed Eden's suggestion.

"Communist China has a lot to atone for before the United States considers any 'improved' trade program," he said.

Eden also told reporters the British government feels it might be desirable to increase the number of United Nations observers in the demilitarized zones of the Palestine area to keep peace.

He said it would be up to the UN and to Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian head of the UN truce supervisory team in the area, whom he praised for "a magnificent job in the most difficult conditions."

CHICAGO — British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd said here yesterday Great Britain and the United States did not enter into any secret pacts during this week's talks between the two nations.

Lloyd said the United States' foreign aid program had been a "tremendous factor in saving the free world."

He declined to comment on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' "brink of war" remarks.

On Cyprus, he said, Britain favored a "gradual process" for the country and warned that Britain 'cannot carry on our commitments to the free world without Cyprus."

Eden Arrives for Talks With Canadian Leaders

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Eden said on his arrival here Friday night he will have "many matters" but "no problems" to talk over with Canadian leaders.

Homburg in hand, he stepped from an RCAF Dakota to be greeted by Prime Minister St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Lionel Massey, secretary and son of Governor-General Vincent Massey.

Sir Anthony described his talks with President Eisenhower in Washington as "most useful" and said it was a pleasure to be back "in your great country." He was last here as foreign secretary with Sir Winston Churchill in 1954.

Photographers crowded forward as Eden, wearing a blue coat trimmed with a fur collar, stepped down from the plane in front of a new air force hangar at Uplands airfield and Mr. St. Laurent had a little difficulty getting through the crowd to greet him.

Inside the warm hangar, Eden shook hands with members of the diplomatic corps and then stepped before a microphone to say a few words. He was in obvious good spirits.

Sir Anthony is scheduled to lunch with Mr. St. Laurent at the latter's home today but he has no other engagements until Monday, when he will address Parliament.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd arrived 2½ hours later from Chicago where he had spoken earlier in the day.

News to Husband

Judy Garland Seeks Divorce

JUDY GARLAND

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP)—Judy Garland filed a surprise divorce suit against her producer husband, Sid Luft, Friday—and even Luft said, "This is news to me."

The chubby singing star had given Hollywood the idea her nearly four-year marriage to Luft was a fairly happy one, but she sent attorney Jerry Giesler into court here late Friday to ask for a divorce on grounds of extreme mental cruelty.

When Luft returned to their Holmby Hills home at 6.45 p.m. from his office, Judy and the children were gone.

But he had no idea why they were absent until informed of the divorce suit.

"This is baloney," he said. "She left no note or anything. I just got home and haven't even looked around to see if her clothes are gone.

"We didn't have any fight. This is a blow to me.

"The only reason I can see is that Judy hasn't been feeling too hot lately."

New Blasts from Siberia Prolong Europe's Icy Agony

LONDON (AP) — New blasts from Siberia headed for Europe Friday night to prolong the great freeze that already has claimed more than 100 lives.

Weathermen warned of the new threat just as the icebound continent expected relief in its worst winter of the 20th century.

From behind the Iron Curtain came hints of a disastrous fuel shortage. Poland's Communist government called immediate talks on saving coal and ordered bonuses to boost output from the mines.

Frigid gales scattered coastal shipping around the continent and even paralyzed the Mediterranean port of Marseilles.

Premier 'Favorable' To Help for VCs

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has promised to give "favorable consideration" to helping B.C. Victoria Cross winners attend the June centennial in London of the Commonwealth's highest valor award.

Asked yesterday whether provincial government financial assistance would be provided, Mr. Bennett said: "Favorable consideration will be given by this government to any VC winner in the province who wants to go to the celebrations but cannot afford to make the trip."

Natives Shove Queen's Car To Start It After Embarrassing Hitch on Dirt Road

KADUNA, Nigeria (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh got stuck in their Rolls-Royce Friday on a dirt road under the tropical African sun.

The enormous, open car clunked to an embarrassing halt after leaving ceremonies at the Parliament House of northern Nigeria. The chauffeur got nowhere trying to start it.

While the young British monarch and her husband sweated it out in the fierce sun, a delighted group of Africans fell in behind the Rolls-Royce and pushed until the engine started.

Before the "great white Queen" addressed the Parliament, she attended another ceremony at which more than 5,000 youngsters from the wilds of north Nigeria screamed out their joy at laying eyes on her.

They presented the royal couple with little tribal robes to take to Buckingham Palace for Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

The seven-year-old heir apparent to the British throne got a gift even more exciting than a space suit—a deep violet burnous and headdress embroidered in silver. His five-year-old sister got a crimson kanuri tribal tunic.

Both of them got black ostrich leather sandals and peacock fans.

During Friday's "children's hour" in a vast arena in this tropical city, a sleepy little African donkey went into a wild west act that stole the show for awhile.

When the monarch and her husband were strolling through a native village set up for their benefit, a 10-year-old in a white tunic and trousers whizzed along the length of the "street," his donkey rarin' and buckin' under him.

The youngster somehow managed to retain both his seat and his dignity — while the Royal couple roared with laughter.

The 5,500 children who gathered here are the sons and daughters of Moslem "knights" and half-naked warriors from Nigeria's north, which still lives chiefly in the manner of the Middle Ages.

When the Queen and the duke paraded through the specially-built mud-thatched village, boy and girl dancers whirled around them, sprang yelling into the air, and did cartwheels and backward somersaults.

Along the street, a 12-year-old boy dressed in a leopard skin twanged on a guitar-type instrument called a "molo." Another lad, clad in a cowhide suit, strummed a lyre - shaped instrument made of bamboo.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PARIS dress designers have dipped into the alphabet soup mix again and come up with a new silhouette.

Dior had the H look and the A look. Now it's the small "f" look.

If he keeps going at this rate, Dior won't have to bother employing an office staff. He'll simply tell his girls to run along and spell out a message.

But there are still a few letters of the alphabet that Dior hasn't used.

Most men would describe the Dior outline as the Y look—meaning "Y did he have to do this to us?"

Some women are already calling it the U look—meaning "U can wear it—not me."

Other fashion designers are still permitting women to look like women, thank goodness.

The "Oh!" look and the "Gee" look will always be the favorites with us men.

A fashion writer says that "unbelted bags are out," which sounds like good news, at that. Who let them in, to start with?

Some of us men are wearing the W look—all doubled up with mirth at the sight of the new creations. No matter what letter of the alphabet they are supposed to represent, most of them look like L to us.

Likely candidates for our Rat of the Week award in Victoria are the two teen-aged boys who knocked a 14-year-old girl off her bicycle in the Fairfield area, lifted her wallet, removed a prescription for glasses which the girl was carrying to an optician, and tore the prescription to shreds.

The girl's grandmother reported the incident.

The family has been having a tough time. The girl has been falling behind in her school work, because of her short sight, and a doctor prescribed thick glasses for her. She wept over the loss of the prescription, which cost money and meant a great deal to her.

Only a day or so before, her nine-year-old brother was also knocked from his bicycle by two large hooligans.

I doubt whether gutersnipes of this kind do any reading, but if they should read this, I would be happy to phone a gymnasium and arrange a bout for them, with someone nearer their own weight.

Resignations Demanded

Towers Case 'Shocking' To City, Says Lawyer

"The citizens of Victoria are shocked and alarmed at the conduct of the chief constable and the attitude of our police commissioners following the revelations contained in the statement of the minister of justice with respect to the conduct of Probationary Constable Donald Towers while a member of the RCMP."

W. J. Moresby, Victoria lawyer, in a statement to The Daily Colonist last night, added that he believed those concerned should resign.

He continued:

"Surely it is the duty of the chief constable to thoroughly investigate the background of any potential police officer whom he contemplated hiring.

"Although the chief constable has the authority to hire on a probationary basis, it is incredible that he would exercise this authority without being personally satisfied as to the applicant's background, or if in doubt at all, referring the matter to the commission.

"We must assume that the chief constable had considerable knowledge of this man's past record.

"Even after this man had admitted to the commission a serious breach of duty while a member of the RCMP, and that he had been found guilty and sentenced to a term of imprisonment for his conduct, the chief and the commission decided to retain him in a position of great responsibility so far as the [illegible]

"It is an insult to the RCMP that our officials should question the decision of its officers, especially when the decision appears to have been accepted by the minister of justice.

"This man has been on the city police force since November.

"As Royal Commissioner R. H. Tupper said in Vancouver: 'The average citizen, would rather live in fear of the criminal than in fear of his own police force.'

"Are we so short of applicants for the city police force that we must accept candidates, even though on probation, with a background of this kind?

"The citizens deserve better treatment than this.

"The attitude of the police and the commissioners is impossible and deplorable. They should resign immediately."

Relief for Pensioners

Sexton Applauds Bonus

Increase of $5 in cost-of-living bonus for old-age pensioners brought the provincial government a message of "warmest commendation" from Archbishop Harold E. Sexton and other Anglican clergymen of the diocese of British Columbia yesterday.

At a special conference, the clergy also expressed the hope "that this sorely-needed relief may be only a beginning."

In a letter to Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Archbishop Sexton said the Anglican synod of B.C. has "for many years been greatly concerned over this question . . . of inadequate pensions."

The synod has made a number of recommendations, he said, "for the betterment of the conditions under which many pensioners are forced to exist.

"We are delighted that, while this appears to be in the main the responsibility of the Dominion government, the provincial government recognizes the need for action, and we hope that a further grant may be forthcoming next year."

The archbishop told The Daily Colonist that Anglicans have "for some years entertained the idea of establishing a home for the aged in this district, but so far we have only been able to make a modest beginning.

Horse Killed In Mud

A former racehorse which was the pet of a Sooke road family bogged down in the treacherous mud flats yesterday and had to be shot.

Robert Trembath, RR2, Victoria, said he had a friend shoot "King's Honor" after it was found impossible to extricate the animal from the mud.

"We have two other horses, but this was our pet," he said.

"We got him for my wife and my daughter, Diana, who is nine. He had a fine record as a racehorse in Vancouver before we got him and he won a lot of money."

Mrs. Trembath, who is blind, had made a special pet of the horse.

Garden Notes

Sweetheart Still Favorite

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Lettuce. For a head lettuce, I have yet to find a variety I like better than Sweetheart. This one makes small, firm heads, heading up surely, with no tendency to go to seed even in the heat of mid-summer.

We make succession sowings every couple of weeks all through the season and in normal years we have been able to cut heads of lettuce almost to Christmas from open-air rows.

This year I am trying the English variety Tom Thumb alongside Sweetheart for purposes of comparison. New York 12 does fairly well for me, but we prefer the very small heads of Sweetheart to the cabbage-size varieties.

FLAVOR UNEXCITING

In leaf lettuce, I found the much-touted Salad Bowl rather disappointing last year. True, it makes a very neat, compact plant, but I didn't find the flavor anything to write home about. This year we are trying Burpee Greenheart, a very frilly lettuce which looks more like endive, and Matchless, which is a selected strain of Bibb.

Bibb lettuce, which has a deer's tongue leaf, has long been a favorite with the chefs of the big luxury hotels in the U.S. for its flavor and its ability to take up the mayonaise or dressing, but it hasn't performed very well in our part of the world until this new strain, Matchless, came along.

Spinach. We don't grow spinach any more in our garden. You have to cut bushels of the stuff to get enough for a family feed, and this takes up too much space for a continuous supply. Besides none of us have Popeye's fondness for it. Instead, we grow mustard greens in the variety Tendergreen, which can be cut only 28 days from seed.

This is a dual purpose mustard, fine in salads, and with a creamy mustardy flavor when boiled like spinach.

Cucumber. Up until last year, we always grew Straight Eight, which performed very well for us, but our experiences last summer with Burpee Hybrid definitely sold us on the varity.

This is what is know as an F1 hybrid, or first generation after the mating of the parent plants, and as in all such hybrids, the vigor of the vines has to be seen to be believed. We had enormous quantities of big, good-looking cucumbers with crisp, white flesh and mild in flavor. The seeds are very expensive—about one cent each!

Another surprise last year was a pickling cucumber called Green Thumb. We only had six plants, but these gave us all the gherkins and dills we could use, plus enough to supply our immediate neighbors.

Corn. We have tried just about all the F1 hybrid varieties of corn, and after being duly impressed by their vigor and size, we have gone back to our old favorite, Golden Bantam. The beautiful, big ears of the hybrids, with their pearly kernels, just didn't have the flavor we were looking for.

Golden Bantam isn't the easiest corn in the world to grow in our district, as it isn't very fond of our cool nights, and the trick here is to buy a specially selected or re-selected strain of seed. The Reselected T & T strain has given us good results most years, although we didn't have much luck even with this one in 1954.

I haven't tried it myself, but I have heard very good reports of a dwarf corn called Golden Midget, which should be just the thing for small gardens.

Library Book Loans Higher, Costs Lower

Victoria Public Library spent $14,000 less last year than it had budgeted for, although circulation was higher than ever before.

J. E. Neely, re-elected chairman of the library board, noted these facts yesterday in his annual report, and said the saving would be enjoyed by contributing municipalities.

Mr. Neely suggested that it would be in the best interests of all the municipalities if Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee took steps this year for long-term library development.

The board received a letter from Central Saanich asking for discussion on a new agreement for library service.

Mr. Neely's report showed that circulation had climbed from 443,199 in 1954 to 491,566 in 1955. Circulation increased from 18,289 to 19,560 in Esquimalt, from 64,221 to 65,316 in Oak Bay, from 104,448 to 121,074 in Saanich and from 244,510 to 270,622 in Victoria.

Circulation of adult books per adult person in the whole area was 2.58.

The library's collection of books increased from 102,231 to 111,223 during the year.

Next meeting of thae board, at which the 1956 budget will be considered, will be on Feb. 15.

Grant Planned For Ghost City

Annual grant of $10,000 to preserve the Cariboo gold rush town of Barkerville was recommended in the legislature yesterday by Trade Minister Ralph Chetwynd.

The ghost city once had a population greater than any other centre west of Chicago and north of San Francisco.

The minister said post office authorities should issue a special stamp depicting the old Barkerville church to commemorate B.C.'s centenary in 1958.

Dairy Farmers Lose Licences

Suspension of 84 dairy farm licences to ship milk to the fluid market in the period announced yesterday by Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

He added that only a few shippers had their licences cancelled for failure to supply the quality of milk required, and that the remainder did not have adequate milk houses.

Victoria High school will present a circus Feb. 17 and 18 at 8 p.m. in the school.

Objective of the show is to raise $3,000 for stage curtains.

The Search for Bridey Murphy

(Having completed his tape-recorded sessions with Ruth Simmons, Mr. Bernstein today seeks some outside views on the remarkable experiment of Bridey Murphy. He also tells of the care he took to avoid placing too great a strain on his subject.

(The Daily Colonist does not necessarily endorse the book or its views, but presents it as a fasciating and provocative story.)

By MOREY BERNSTEIN

Chapter XII

WHERE ARE THE PSYCHIATRISTS?

In asking people to listen to the tape recordings, I had particularly sought out keen thinkers whose incisive analyses would probe all possible explanations of the Bridey Murphy phenomenon. And I was especially interested in drawing out a conclusion from one listener whose brilliance and penetrating logic had won him national prominence. Consequently I called on him several months after he had listened to the recordings.

"You've heard the Bridey tapes," I said, "and you've had time to think about them. Now what's your opinion of the whole thing?"

"I've given those tapes considerable thought," he answered. "At this point I'd be unwilling to state a definite conclusion. But I don't mind listing some general observations.

"In thinking over the Bridey matter, for instance, I was reminded that philosopher Hume said that no testimony is sufficient to establish a miracle unless the testimony be of such a kind that its falsehood would be more miraculous than the fact which it endeavors to establish.

And in the Bridey Murphy case I admit that alternative explanations are more fantastic than the rebirth explanation she gives while under hypnosis. Her explanation, in fact, is the only one which seems to fit all the facts.

"For example, an alternative theory which will probably be suggested by some is that your subject has read or heard a story which she has adopted as her own. But this idea has too many shortcomings. Hearing or reading a story would not account for her subtle Irish brogue while under hypnosis; it would not account for her ability to dance the Morning Jig. Furthermore, Bridey's life is too drab and unromantic to have been the theme of any story. And if there is such a story, where is it?

Bridey's 158 Years

Here is the chronology of the life span of Ruth Simmons-Bridey Murphy, according to the tape recordings made under hypnosis:

Year	Event	Life span
1798	Bridey born in Cork, Ireland.	66 years
1864	Bridey lives in Belfast, Ireland.	59 years
1864	Brides lives in "astral" world.	33 years
1923	Ruth Simmons born in Ohio.
1956	Tape recordings completed.
	Total life span of Ruth Simmons-Bridey Murphy	158 years

She Insists She Lived

"If she had read or heard all this, your subject could easily explain that fact under hypnosis. But she insists that she actually lived through those experiences. And I believe I'm safe in saying that anyone who has listened to your tapes will promptly agree that the spontaneity and character of her responses—and her association of thoughts—indicate that this is a person who is actually relating her own experiences and not merely repeating a tale.

"On top of all this, it is very unlikely that any story would have included the after-death episode that Bridey describes."

"What about the possibility that the whole thing might have been produced by fraud?" I asked him.

"That's even less tenable than the story theory," he replied, "for some of the reasons I just mentioned. Moreover, if there was trickery or deception, it means that your subject was acting. And if what I heard was a histrionic performance, then Ruth Simmons is a greater actress than Sarah Bernhardt.

Besides, much of the information she disclosed while in trance simply was not available to either you or her. Some facts were not even available on this side of the Atlantic. No, fraud is not the answer.

"But despite these observations, we still know far too little about the mind to conclude safely that the Bridey Murphy case proves the reincarnation principle. About all I can say—and perhaps all you should say—is that it is an interesting piece of evidence and might point the way to further exploration."

Yes, I admitted to myself, that was about the size of it.

Later, when I was about to leave, he added one more observation: "There is another hopeful aspect of the Bridey case. For years men have been trying to learn whether man's consciousness survives the death of his physical body. Almost invariably investigations in this area have gone in only one direction—the attempt to establish some sort of communication after death of the physical body.

"The Bridey type of experiment at least suggests the possibility of reversing the direction of these investigations — of establishing evidence, that is, of individual consciousness before birth."

As I played the tape recordings for various groups in both Colorado and New York—groups which included hardened skeptics from the ranks of doctors, lawyers, clergymen, and Wall Streeters—I was naturally bombarded with questions. Some of these queries were repeated so frequently that it might be well to touch on them at this point.

How Did Ruth React?

Naturally, most listeners wanted to know about Ruth Simmons' reaction. How does a normal 20th-century woman—a youthful matron primarily interested in her family and a well-maintained home—react to hearing her own recorded words describe a previous lifetime in 19th-century Ireland?

To be sure, Ruth, who had never before given a thought to the reincarnation concept, was stunned by the impact of the first disclosure of Bridey; she gasped again and again as the Bridey story unfolded.

On the other hand, her interest subsided quickly as she returned to her normal duties as a housewife. Even playing bridge or watching the local baseball club took definite priority over another "Bridey session."

She now took for granted that in her last lifetime her name had been Bridey Murphy, and that was that. As a matter of fact, she said, "I know there has got to be something to Bridey Murphy, but it has in no way affected my outlook in this lifetime."

The attitude of her husband can best be summarized by his reply to a group who had sought him out to learn whether he accepted the rebirth idea.

"What choice do I have?" he asked. "I know my wife and I know all that information could not be pouring out of Ruth." He added that they owned no encyclopedia or reference books, nor did they even have a library card.

One problem which particularly disturbed thoughtful listeners was bluntly expressed by a newspaper editor who asked, "If this Bridey Murphy business, with all that it implies, is true, then why am I hearing about it for the first time from a business man? How can it be possible that some psychiatrists are not running into the same thing?"

In the first place, it should be made clear that many psychiatrists have been "running into the same thing" for years. The British psychiatrist, Dr. Sir Alexander Cannon, long ago encountered the principle of reincarnation. This knighted scientist, the holder of an imposing list of degrees, wrote as follows:

For years the theory of reincarnation was a nightmare to me, and I did my best to disprove it and even argued with my trance subjects to the effect that they were talking nonsense, and yet as the years went by one subject after another told me the same story in spite of different and varied conscious beliefs, in effect until now, well over a thousand cases have been so investigated I have to admit that there is such a thing as reincarnation.

Nor does this man stand alone. There are, indeed a number of scientists whose experiments have led them to the same conclusion.

As I look back now, I can think of a good many things that should have been done, of questions that should have been asked. But I am not a professional at this business. Then, too, my experience in this field has all come so suddenly.

As to questioning a subject, my first session presented a really perplexing problem. How does one interrogate a young woman who abruptly announces that she has spent the previous century in Ireland" Perhaps she knew where she was, but I was lost!

The interrogation of Ruth Simmons was also encumbered by other limitations. The whole experiment would have collapsed without the co-operation of Rex Simmons, and so his recommendations—he never issued commands—had to be scrupulously observed.

After the first time he asked, in order to make certain that Ruth would not be unduly fatigued, that no session take longer than one hour. Since this included the time required for the hypnosis and the ordinary age regression, there was not too long a period left for the interrogation of Bridey Murphy.

I tried to avoid any type of question that might possibly result in his wife's anxiety or discomfort. Anything of a very personal or intimate nature was avoided. While it could be especially interesting—and might possibly even develop significant factual material — still it might result in disclosing incidents of an embarrassing nature.

And everything happened so quickly! I recorded the first tape in November, the third tape in January, and then left for New York four days later. I had been in New York less than a week when an editor suggested that I start putting it all down on paper.

A Returnable Investment

A COMPOSITE plan to make use of what highways Vancouver Island has, to link these with logging and other industrial roads now building and, above all, to extend the highway system northward to the top of the Island obviously is one that will require time to work out. The undertaking given in the Legislature this week by Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways, nonetheless is one of first rank importance to every community on Vancouver Island. Here, in vision at least, is the long-range objective: the opening up of all sections of the island by a planned road system which will connect with the main highway network of British Columbia.

Of special interest is the improvement of the east coast road between Campbell River and Kelsey Bay, and its eventual extension to Port Hardy. This will enter virgin territory, linking communities which never before have had other than irregular steamship access to the rest of the province. It would also provide an initial basis for laterals to principal settlements on the northwest coast. Taken in conjunction with the already launched effort to link up west coast points by logging roads to the existing highway system, the northern extension would be most valuable. It fills part of the dream that has been nursed ever since the turn of the century by isolated communities, some of material economic importance to British Columbia as a whole.

Industrially, scenically and from the standpoint of the island settlements, we know of no other investment which could be more sure of a return of every dollar invested in it. The administration is to be commended for facing an obligation which preceding governments too often neglected or misunderstood. It may be that the east coast highway extension will not prove to be the shortest or the most inclusive way of tapping the north end of the island, but it is readily accessible now and it can be done as fast as the highway allocations of the province permit.

Meanwhile the eventual possibility of a central backbone route, threading the valleys of the northern end of the island, should be borne in mind. Those who are well acquainted with the terrain have frequently said that they believe that such a route is feasible: that where Nature has laid a valley man may build a road. We agree however, that starting virtually from scratch the province is wise in making full use of every road in existence, meshing its own plans with those of industry and pushing ahead as fast as possible with the initial opening up and development of this virgin territory.

Vancouver Island communities should get together now with their own ideas on the subject, and through the Island boards of trade or otherwise put before the government a joint set of recommendations.

For the immediate present the Province will do well if it drives ahead with its highway-logging road links, gradually working into its composite plan such made and developed roads as will serve the main purpose. When that much has been absorbed there would, in our view, be no sounder development than that outlined in part by the minister of highways himself. All of Vancouver Island stands to gain by improving its degree of accessibility.

None Too Edifying

AN opposition MLA said the other day that if his job were to oppose and condemn but nothing else he would not stay in the Legislature for an hour. One does not doubt his sincerity but it must be said that appearances in such a matter are deceptive. Too often it seems that the Legislature, and the federal Parliament too, are simply places where rival groups explore every avenue of being "agin" the others. Scoring off an opponent no matter what the merits of an argument has a top priority rating. The result is not always particularly edifying. It also points to one weakness in our political system, the one that creates cynical observers.

The party division has evolved as the best means of attending to parliamentary business. There has to be a solidified group holding office, and one or more groups in opposition to keep the office-holders from running rampant. It is a system of check and counter-balance even if sometimes the scales are weighted too much on one side. There is a lack of unanimity concerning one point, however; that basically all are elected to preserve the interests of the province. This latter aspect is too often forgotten in the desire of one side to discredit the other. In point of fact no business or other organization could function for a week if its affairs were run on the same carping basis; with elected officials continually sniped at by disappointed opponents, and the latter sneered at on the slightest pretext by the former.

Sometimes this kind of behavior reaches such a degree of bickering and name-calling one wonders if mature adults have given up their seats to callow adolescents. So anxious seemingly is each side of the House to fault the other that the dignity and responsibility of their position as lawmakers is thrown to the winds. Even if this is recognized as part of the "political game" is should be remembered that any game can be carried too far. One would welcome an apparent realization that possibly a government could present a measure that really was worthwhile and that an opposition could voice a viewpoint that was equally worthwhile. Party face-saving carried to the point where nothing the other fellow says can be any good, as quite obviously it very often is, is a denial of the fundamental purpose of a legislature.

Substandard Firewood

UNSCRUPULOUS firewood dealers—of whom apparently there are some in this region—have provoked renewed complaints from householders. This is customary when a cold spell brings an increased demand for fuel from people who have not looked far enough ahead and find themselves in urgent need of replenishments. The itinerant wood truck operator then has a ready market among people who will buy a pig in a poke rather than take their turn on the waiting list of an established dealer.

Some of the peddlers offer an honest load of reasonably good quality fuel. Some do not; and it is they who wring outcries from householders who, too late, find they have been stung with a load of sodden junk that had been concealed under a top layer of good-looking wood; and that may be short in volume as well.

It is a story as old as the warnings are numerous; yet every winter a few dishonest, fly-by-night operators seem able to find easy marks. Then there is a howl of protest to the city hall, demanding that the authorities take action which the complainants did not trouble or did not think to take themselves. While it is proper that there should be regulations to protect purchasers against fraudulent activities, these can go only so far and there are limits on the policing the authorities can undertake.

After all, fuel is only one of many commodities where there is room for variation in quality and quantity, and if "the law" had to examine them all there would have to be as many inspectors as salesmen.

The time-honored legal doctrine of "let the buyer beware" applies to domestic fuel as to everything else. While the purchaser is entitled to all reasonable protection, it is still up to him to take a good look at what he is buying and reject it if below standard.

Interpreting the News

Sublime to Ridiculous

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

PREMIER Bulganin, in his efforts to get the West to rely on Russia's word and lie doggo while she continues her program of world conquest, has now passed from the sublime to the totally ridiculous.

In addition to the United States, he is now offering treaties of friendship to Britain and France almost before the ink is dry on Moscow's denunciation of just such treaties made soon after World War II.

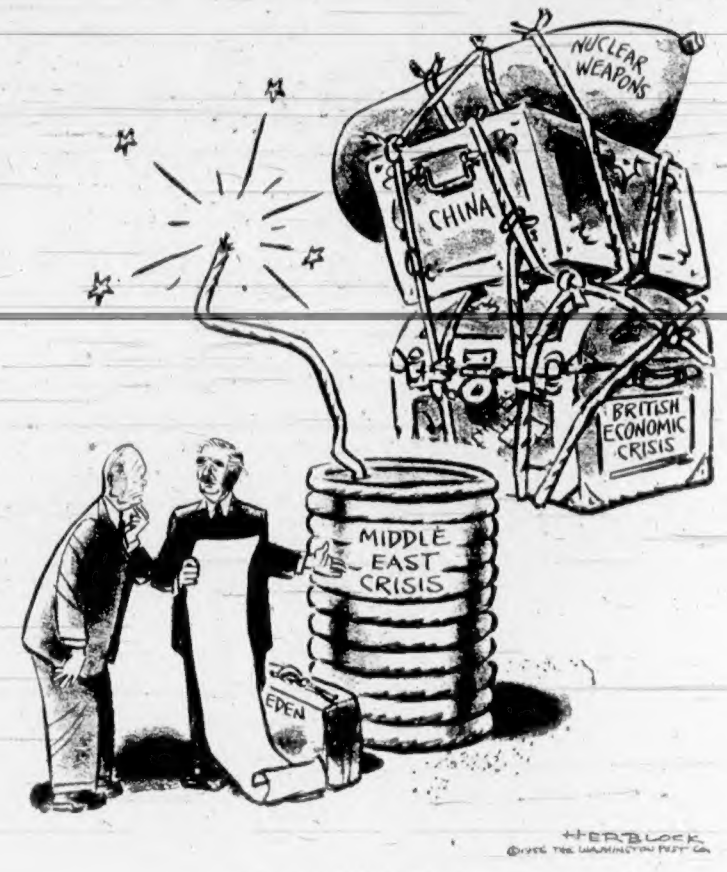

* * *

It is almost as though he were intentionally trying to call attention to the Russian policy—and it is a policy, laid down by the fathers of Russian communism—of making agreements when it seems to be profitable and breaking them for the same reason.

Presumably realizing that this bait is tainted, Bulganin also slyly attempts to tell the West that it can have peace after another fashion—by recognizing Russia and her satellites as a permanent bloc of states.

Almost in the same breath with his offer of treaties to Britain and France, the Russian premier reminds that Moscow still stands on its previous offer to make a similar treaty between the Warsaw bloc and the NATO nations. That is purely and simply a back door effort to get the United States to abandon the hope of satellite liberation.

In this same connection Bulganin repeats the Russian contention that, by encouraging the hope of liberation, the West is interfering in the internal affairs of sovereign states. Yet these states are militarily ruled from Moscow and sovereign only to the extent that they are permitted to parrot in their own names whatever the Russians tell them to say.

"Shall we start with this one?"

Navy Annals

Gerald Waring

By FRANK KELLEY

ONLY if one happens to be favored with the receipt of such a report as the zealous convener of the Nautical Committee on Naval Research annually submits to the president of the B.C. Historical Society, could he appreciate the time taken by Major F. V. Longstaff in acquiring the very substantial bulk of naval facts associated with the story of the ships flying the White Ensign on all oceans of the world and more particularly the divisions based on the sea coasts of Canada, at Esquimalt and Halifax.

Introducing this 1955 report of the Maritime Committee as his 33rd annual presentation, the convener states the reports have been continuously presented during that time. These each fill two large folios of type-written matter, containing much undoubtedly that should be interesting to students of naval history, as the report states he continues to co-operate with officers of the Royal Navy, Royal Canadian Navy, Dominion Archivist W. K. Lamb and Provincial Archivist W. E. Ireland in recording the marine history of Canada.

* * *

Not all conveners of committees associated with organizations recording and perpetuating the story of important features of Canadian life can be as jealous of their sources of information as the ex-military officer, who likes to consider the wearer of the navy blue somebody apart. He devotes a large share of his time, spare and otherwise, to gathering facts that one day undoubtedly will be valuable to the historian-minded writer setting down facts about Canada's rightful place in the sea-power picture of the present era, anyway.

Submitting his latest report to the president of the society, the convener accompanied it with a mimeographed copy for each member, in addition to which he informs me he has distributed all of a hundred extra copies to parties who have expressed interest in the subject of a Canadian sea force from time to time. His records, he states, also contain facts for every year from 1848, when the first frigate of the Royal Navy dropped anchor in Esquimalt Harbor, as well as explaining the reasons why many of the ships came to Esquimalt. These particular records, contained in two large loose-leafed books, refer to movements of each war vessel annually with lists of Royal Navy vessels at Esquimalt from 1803 to 1939 and lists of Royal Canadian Navy ships up to 1945.

* * *

The convener instances in the report that after long years of researching he has located an original photograph of the sailing schooner Naden, taken at Vancouver in 1913. It will be used as a frontispiece, he adds, for the second and enlarged addition of the "History of the Naden" which he is now making ready for publication and which should be on the bookstands shortly, when all the author's photos connected with the Esquimalt development will be published for the first time, no doubt adding to the expected interest of naval men as well as navy-minded citizens.

The report also revives a note regarding HMS Cormorant, tenth Royal Navy ship of the same name. Built at Chatham in 1877, she was the first vessel of any description to be accommodated in Esquimalt's naval dock, 1877, and was broken up in 1948. The report also includes mentions of naval officers prominent on both coasts of Canada and in the Old Land, of cruises undertaken by ships of the RCN and progress incidental to the growth of Esquimalt.

Reports from Ottawa

"AN exchange of views" seems to be the proper way to describe what will take place here when Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain confer with members of our Government.

There has been no evidence here of any great Anglo-Canadian decisions in the making. No Anglo-Canadian "working group" has been busy preparing the agenda and briefing both sides on matters to be discussed, the way the British and the Americans prepared for the Eden-Eisenhower conference. Canadian foreign service officials did list a number of matters and presented them to Foreign Minister Pearson as a tentative agendum, but he brushed them aside in favor of an informal approach.

* * *

What took Eden to the White House was the need to try to reconcile foreign policy differences between Britain and the US. This circumstance does not apply to Eden's visit to Canada, for two reasons. There are no important differences between Canadian and British foreign policy. And toward the area about which Eden and Eisenhower talked longest and hardest, the Middle East, Canada scarcely has a foreign policy.

* * *

What, for example, is Canada's policy toward Israel, Egypt and Cyprus? It is little more than the laudable wish that these troubled lands simmer down and settle their differences amicably, lest they precipitate war which could engulf the world. Our government has no responsibilities in the area beyond those inherent in membership in the United Nations and NATO. Nor does it want any. It is quite content to leave to Britain and the U.S. any action required to block Soviet aims in that part of the world.

This situation minimizes the possibility that the talks here might bring Canada more actively into Anglo-American plans to nullify the new Russian threat to infiltrate and eventually dominate the Middle East.

Elsewhere in the soft underbelly of democracy against which the Communists are moving—south and south-east Asia—Canada has a more vibrant policy and a more virile part to play, both diplomatically in the capitals of the new Asian nations and Indo-China, and economically through the Colombo Plan.

* * *

Much of the talking among prime ministers Eden and St. Laurent and foreign ministers Lloyd and Pearson is bound to centre around the stalemate in Vietnam which is leaving the International supervisory commission with progressively less to do and less reason for its continued existence.

Canada is a member of that commission, along with India and Poland. The Canadian government's position is that Canada will continue to serve the cause of peace there so long as the commission is achieving a useful purpose. But the government is adverse to permitting a continued drain on Canadian diplomatic and military officer manpower by a commission frozen in futility.

* * *

This position will be restated to Eden, who with Russian Foreign Minister Molotov was co-chairman of the 1954 Geneva Conference which drafted Canada for the assignment in Indo-China. But there is no likelihood that St. Laurent will tell Eden that we've had enough. We'll stick it out in Indo-China for a while—especially since the experts now look for a break in the situation by spring, with India forcing the issue.

The Packsack

This Art Moderne

By GREGORY CLARK

THE trouble with this modern furniture and modern architecture and modern art is that it is dated.

It is not dated in the long, comfortable way that other furniture and art are dated. It is dated only five or 10 years.

And that is very humiliating. For example, if you converted your home to the modern style of furniture and decoration say in 1947, it is far more out-dated than if you had furnished it in your grandmother's old beat-up walnut. I suppose you can console yourself with thinking that the style of your home is early modern, eh?

* * *

But it does look sort of silly, doesn't it? In 1947, the furniture people and the designers of "modern" items hadn't quite got the modern idea. They were groping for it. But they hadn't quite got it. So your home looks as if it were trying to be modern, but had missed it by about eight or 10 years. Very humiliating.

What we ought to do, I suppose, is wait until this modern idea gets really settled in its own mind. Let's wait 10 or 20 years, and see what modern really is. For so far, it hasn't made up its mind. It keeps changing, almost within a year. In two years, of course, it is dated definitely. And if you were so unfortunate as to have gone modern five years ago, you find yourself in the predicament of not only not being modern, but of not being old-fashioned, either.

Buildings that went modern eight years ago are made to look very curious indeed when a new modern building goes up next to them this year. But the old buildings in the block look cosier than ever.

* * *

I have a friend who got rich suddenly after the war and went in for modern painting and sculpture. He amassed quite a collection and then grew a little angry.

"These darn moderns," he told me indignantly, "won't stand still. Every year they get more modern. And I have to keep on buying, and shoving stuff up into my attic to make room for the new. What they assured me 10 years ago was the most modern I could find is stashed up there in the attic; no dealer will buy it and I can't give it to anybody. Why don't they slow up . . . ?"

That's the trouble with modern. It can't.

On the Record

Achilles Heel In Cold War

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

WHAT we call "cold war" and the Russians call "co-existence" is going to last for a long time. It is a struggle, waged from positions of military strength on both sides with the paradoxical understanding that military weapons will not be used.

The weapons are, instead, a factor contributing to the political strength and influence of each of the rivals. The real conflict is the political, economic, and ideological struggle of each to expand its global influence at the cost of the other.

* * *

One factor in this struggle is industrial and technological capacity. Here the West is in the lead; but the Soviets are catching up, with the firm intention to equal and surpass the United States within a decade or so.

In this competition conceivably the primary factor is education, and here there is genuine cause for alarm in America.

* * *

Previously I have described Russian secondary education with its enormous disciplines.

Not long ago Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and others concerned with American technological progress again revealed the deficiencies of American education. We are seriously short of students trained in science and engineering. The reason lies in our high schools, where students do not even have the opportunity to discover whether scientific studies appeal to them "because courses are either not available, or are taught by instructors doubing in other subjects," and (the comment is mine) such courses are not compulsory.

* * *

In 1950 only 4 per cent of American high school students were studying physics, 7 per cent chemistry, 27 per cent algebra, and 13 per cent geometry.

In contrast, in 1900 the proportion of such students was from 2 to 6 per cent higher.

* * *

In more startling contrast, these subjects—elementary to all further scientific-technological training—are compulsory in the Soviet Union for 100 per cent of students, and begin in the seventh grade.

Russian education is continuous through 10 grades. Anything but "progressive," it is, apparently, modeled on the system that prevailed under the tsars, and which within the limited population it reached—by no means confined to the aristocracy—produced superb intelligences. Now, available to everyone (with the exception of rural communities to which the 10-year course has not yet been wholly extended) it is an education for an elite of brains, developed by effort and ambition, which the student either encompasses or flunks out of; into schools for the retarded, or into the ranks of manual labor.

* * *

I am not recommending this system for America. But we face up to the fact that the attempt to educate everybody is progressing to the point of educating nobody in the knowledges fundamental to work requiring strict, intellectual disciplines.

Sixty years ago a high school diploma testified that its possessor had an elementary knowledge of algebra, geometry, physics, chemistry, one ancient and one modern foreign language; could speak and write his own language grammatically; give a somewhat coherent account of at least American history; had read and competently reviewed at least a few of the outstanding English-language classics; and had passed extensive examinations—not of the quiz-kid variety—with a minimum mark of 75.

Today possession of a high school diploma may not assure knowledge beyond that once transmitted before the sixth grade. The intellectually ambitious student is pulled down to the level of the stupid and lazy. We are cutting off the best heads—a form of bolshevist leveling that can be more disastrous than the expropriation of private property.

In any rivalry and in all fields victory goes to the nations that produce the better brains. Brains are developed only by effort and intellectual disciplines. If education progressively abandon the studies that demand these, everybody may be able to read and write (after a fashion) and nobody be able to think. Then we shall be finished.

With the Classics

I long have had a quarrel set with Time,
Because he robbed me every day of life
Was wrested from me after bitter strife.
I never yet could see the sun go down
But I was angry in my heart.

Letters to the Editor

Spirit of Sharing

I am sure our hearts are in full sympathy concerning the present condition of the pensioners.

How often do our politicians quote our resources of wealth. Is our distribution of wealth in the hands of those who lack power to look after our people in want?

It is so different from the spirit of our pensioners who, in spite of their small resources still manage to share with a pet, such as a cat.

Surely if a pensioner can share his little with God's creatures, then those who manage the destinies of our wealthy country can see to it that our pensioners get enough to eat, a warm clean place to live, and the proper clothes to wear.

Case for Ottawa

Thanks, Chris Foster, you are doing a noble job. It's bad enough growing old and feeble with the comforts of life, but to think of these citizens of Canada, or of any other country, living in semi-starvation is one of modern civilization conditions.

Commodities have sky-rocketed and wages have had to rise, and the pensioned or retired people have had to carry on at a third of their living allowance.

Padre Hills made a statement of what they do in England, "that many families take in a pensioned person to live in the home like one of the family." I think he should try this idea out himself before he makes such statements. What a miserable existence for any independent pensioner.

These people are not problem individuals, but many fought for us in the past so that we should live under our great flag.

Frank Heaton, Saanich welfare administer, with his suggestion of room suites; this, of course, would require to be central, and no stairs to climb. This fair city of ours —I mean the people who are blessed with all the comforts of life—could surely give clean furnishings, and the expensive bath could be a shower, much safer for the aged to bathe in.

Victoria has many older retired people and a number have settled here because it is the mildest climate in Canada. They leave many of these prairie towns, and eastern cities also, for this Pacific coast. Now, this condition of distressed pensioners should be brought to the attention of Ottawa.

Furthermore, with the great demand for accommodation, the landlord or landlady is not anxious to have the roomer in most of the day, so many of these dear old souls have a constant feeling that they are not wanted. Remember, we all grow old sometime. Let it be said of us that we helped the suffering of mankind.

Late Mr. G. H. Gardiner

The late Mr. George H. Gardiner had many interests, amongst which was the French language. His passing marks the end of the work of the Victoria Comite of France-Canada, which was formed in 1923. The officers were Mr. G. H. Gardiner, secretary; Mr. H. S. Henderson, treasurer; Madam E. Sanderson-Morgin, executive; and the writer, president. Madam Sanderson and Mr. Henderson died some years ago.

Mr. Gardiner was a fluent French scholar and kept up his interest in both speaking and writing French. The Comite did what it could to entertain prominent French men and women when they visited Victoria, and Mr. Gardiner kept up correspondence with the Secretaire-General of France-Amerique, Paris. The writer resigned the office of president in 1948, but Mr. Gardiner carried on under the late Lady Swettenham, until her passing a few years ago. Mr. Gardiner kept up his interest in French by attending l'Alliance Francais meetings.

'False Propaganda'

The advocates of fluoridation have formed an impressive organization to "educate" the public, but let it be remembered that the best organization in the world, though panoplied with big names, propaganda and wealth, cannot alter the fact that sodium fluorides are a deadly poison; are inorganic, therefore incapable of imparting life to anything, and the consumption of this poison in water must of necessity adversely affect the entire body and brain. For this and other weighty reasons fluoridation has been declared illegal by the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, rejected by hundreds of communities in the United States and totally banned in all Sweden.

A heap of false propaganda has poured from the fluoridation hierarchy's hopper, and it would be wise to hear what independent doctors and chemical scientists have to say.

Parking Solution

An opportunity has presented itself which will help to alleviate the congestion of cars parking close to the city.

It is now possible to obtain from a local department store a paratrooper bicycle at a very low price. This bicycle, built by B.S.A. of Birmingham, England, was constructed to drop from an airplane, to receive a paratrooper, carrying a load of 75 lbs., to forge through the country.

Just undo two large wing nuts and, presto, the bicycle folds up, wheel to wheel, and can be put in the trunk or in the back of the car, with ease. It could also be used by yachting men.

With this bicycle, one could park the car 10 or 20 blocks away, the further the better, and sedentary people would find the exercise and fresh air, coming and going, would be greatly to their advantage.

The writer has been riding for over 50 years, and enjoys the freedom of movement and healthful exercise. Snow, ice or rain will not deter his enthusiasm.

"Red" Spotters

"Labor Youth," since it has become an international movement whose aim is friendly co-operation in promoting mutual understanding and tolerance of individual opinion, seems to have come under the microscope of a certain group, who found it, they say, definitely spotted with red.

Could it be possible that this critical group, who are expert red spotters, might have defective sight? To remove any uncertainty, they might reap much benefit by immediate consultation with and examination by a competent optician.

Should the examination show spots of red on the retina of the eye, which might cause visual aberration no doubt the eye specialist could remove same, and restore the sight to normal. The patient would find much relief.

Superannuation

There are two simple methods for providing for our distressed senior citizens, one short range, one long:

1. Cut defence spending 50 per cent and divert the saving to the OAP fund. (This will not be done; not because of any danger to our security, but quite simply because there is no profit in it.)

2. Put every wage earner on a superannuation scheme the same as civil servants, deducting 5 per cent of all salaries or wages earned. This could be handled by the present national employment scheme, and along similar lines.

Some day in the far, far distant future humanitarianism will replace Mammon worship. When that day dawns we won't have any distressed citizens, senior or otherwise.

East Coast Road Extension Will 'Free' Rich Farm Area

Extension of an east coast road to the northern end of Vancouver Island will enable development of a vast, rich, farming area, Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan predicted yesterday.

"Some of the most productive land on Vancouver Island is up near Cape Scott," the minister explained. "The sole reason it is not being used today is lack of transportation."

He said his department would work in close co-operation with the highways department in planning the highway.

"MARVELLOUS IDEA"

Meanwhile, opposition MLAs from Island constituencies hailed the plan to open up the northern area by building a huge system of highways, as "a marvellous idea."

They said they would press the government for immediate action to start surveys of the area.

"We intend keeping right after the department until we get something concrete moving," said William Moore (CCF, Comox).

SCHEME PRAISED

"I think we should have the work done immediately . . . It's a marvellous idea," commented Dr. Larry Giovando (Lib., Nanaimo and the Islands).

John Squire (CCF, Alberni) and Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan - Newcastle) both added their praise to the scheme and said they would support the move for immediate action.

All 'Nuisance Taxes' Scrapped by Duncan

DUNCAN—Road and poll taxes and the library tax, regarded by city council as nuisance taxes, were cancelled at a special meeting this week.

Mayor Jack Dobson told council he had always regarded the taxes as being more of a nuisance than anything else.

"The taxes were difficult to collect," he said, "and we could only collect from those we could catch."

G. C. Berry, city clerk, said the taxes brought in only $1,230 a year, less than one-third of a mill. The poll tax produced $510; road tax, $410; and library tax, $316.

A much better source of revenue, with practically no nuisance value, he said, is the steady income from parking meters. When first installed the yearly revenue was $8,000. This has increased steadily each year until now parking meters bring in $9,000 a year.

Message from the Minister

Lent Is a Time of Preparation

Another in a series of articles by Greater Victoria clergymen appearing weekly on The Daily Colonist church page.

—REV. ROY MELVILLE
Anglican rector,
North Saanich-Sidney

We are soon to enter the season of Lent—40 days of special opportunity to deepen our spiritual lives so that our Easter communion may be a very real fellowship with God.

It comes every year, commemorating our blessed Lord's fasting and temptation in the wilderness. How does it affect us? Are we strengthened and refreshed thereby or does the time pass without any observation?

There are three notable Christian duties which Christ has set before us in the Sermon on the Mount—prayer, fasting and giving — all of them important. They must become practical attitudes of the Christian life.

Prayer is living with God. It includes both worship and service, for every act may be a prayer—"To labor is to pray." That kind deed is as much a prayer as saying the litany. Prayer brings joys to the soul that prays as well as to the heart of God. So, Lent can become an increase in joyful living; meaningful, purposeful worship and service.

Fasting is self-denial. It helps us control all the appetites. "Man does not live by bread alone"; if we give up some of our desires and pleasures, there will be room and time to do the will of God.

Giving is the outward and visible sign of the Christian's faith. Not a mite, not a tithe, but one's whole self. "God so loved the world that He gave . . . Himself." His servants must do the same; life is not what I can get but what I must give. How surely is our love of God measured by our giving!

We cannot play a game unless we observe the rules. God has called us to play His game. He has given us a living faith in Him as Creator, Redeemer, Sanctifier. Let us play according to the rules!

REV. ROY MELVILLE

As youth week concludes in city churches, Salvation Army services tomorrow will be led by corps cadets, from top, Elaine Mackereth, Claude Dailey and Shirley Oakley. Other speakers will be guardian Barbara Laird and senior captain Cecilia Seivewright. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Farewells Set For Missionary

Farewell services for a Victoria woman who leaves Wednesday for her second term at a mission in Doro, Sudan, will be held in Victoria Alliance Tabernacle at 7.30 p.m. tomorrow.

Rev. W. Myrddian Lewis, a Welsh evangelist and former actor, will preach in the same tabernacle at 8 p.m. daily Feb. 7 to 19.

Missionary is Miss Betty Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Miller, 3062 Irma, who first went to the Sudan in 1951 for linguistic and translation work among Maban tribes, a pagan group of 20,000 persons who live near Ethiopia. She copied St. John's gospel into their language.

Mr. Lewis, a Baptist minister now living in Birmingham, will conduct a 12-day conference on "Bible prophecy."

World Need For Bibles Is Acute

People all over the world are "pleading for Bibles," and the annual need is twice the supply of 25,000,000, provincial secretary Rev. Raymond Tingley of Vancouver told the 81st annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society here this week.

Mr. Tingley disclosed the society distributed more than 6,500,000 Bibles in 1954, at a loss of $860,000.

Frank Martens reported that in 1955, he distributed 1,064 Bibles, 492 testaments and 1,325 gospels in 15 languages on Vancouver Island and adjacent islands.

Rev. G. R. Easter, First Baptist, was re-elected president and Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh, St. Alban's Anglican, vice-president. Other officers: H. L. Hopkins, secretary; Robert Niven, treasurer.

Life memberships were given to Mrs. Niven, Mrs. A. Rhodes and George Broughton. Mr. Niven reported that the financial goal this year would be $500 more than the $3,500 raised last year.

Mr. Tingley spoke at two Victoria churches and in Sidney, Brentwood and Sooke during the week.

Two New District Churches Planned

Construction of new churches was discussed by two Victoria district congregations in annual meetings during the past week.

Parish of St. Matthias' Anglican approved in principle and authorized a call for tenders. Officers include A. Unwin, rector's warden, and J. A. M. Moir, people's warden.

Congregation of St. Paul's United, Sidney, voted unanimously to appoint a special committee to prepare plans for a new building.

OFFICERS

Officers elected were J. H. Crossley, Mrs. C. S. Davie, E. R. Hall, H. J. Readings, F. Reid, J. W. Spurr and Mrs. J. Wallace, elders; and W. I. Anderson, Mrs. Davies, J. C. Ganderton, D. McLellan and A. E. VanEngelen, stewards.

A. E. Wyeth was re-elected people's warden of St. Alban's church and continues as treasurer. Allan Hemsley is rector's warden.

Congregation of First United urged calling of tenders for construction of additions to Fellowship hall. D. Davidson, treasurer of the board of managers, reported church membership grew more than 50 per cent, to 2,060, from 1948 to 1955.

Board of managers officers are F. Ellis, chairman; W. H. Forrest, vice-chairman; W. R. McKinnon, secretary, and Mr. Davidson.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASED

Esquimalt United church increased membership by 32 persons during the year. Elected to the session were William [illegible] Alexander, L. Lancaster, and Jock Wallack; to stewards' committee, Mrs. Mary Walker, Len Cook and Tom Dixon.

St. Paul's Anglican in Esquimalt chose G. W. Baugh-Allen people's warden. W. D. Warder is rector's warden. Painting of pews was discussed at All Saint's Anglican, where A. B. Crowe is vicar's warden and Harry Vickery people's warden.

Metropolitan United men's club chose Robert Jones as president; Gordon Scott, vice-president; Keith Henderson, secretary, and Mervin Wells, treasurer.

Officers of the new Young People's Union at James Bay United are Ian McDougall, president; Winston Roberts, vice-president; Peggy Smith, secretary, and Douglas Barber, treasurer.

At St. Anne's Anglican, Parksville, H. B. George was chosen people's warden and G. A. James, Vicar's warden.

Dutchies Face Big Test Today

These four defencemen of Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen will have their work cut out for them today when they attempt to stall the Soviet's powerful attack in the showdown of the Olympic hockey championships at Cortina, Italy. Canada must defeat the Russians by a three-goal margin to win the title providing the United States doesn't make it a runaway in its game against Czechoslovakia. Cougars' Home Streak Ended As Hodge Scores 2-0 Shutout

By JIM TANG

Inability to make the most of their scoring chances, or to beat Charlie Hodge when they did get their shots on the target, last night cost Victoria Cougars their first defeat of the year on their home ice. Seattle Americans stopped a home-ice undefeated streak at six games by coming through with a 2-0 Western Hockey League win before a crowd of 2,560 fans.

Not since December 30, when Americans won, 4-3, have the Cougars lost at home. Since then they have defeated Edmonton, New Westminster, Seattle, Saskatoon and Calgary and played to a scoreless tie with Vancouver. In the six games, goalie Marcel Pelletier allowed only five goals and three of those came in the 5-3 win over Saskatoon.

Last night, Pelletier had to concede honors to Hodge. While the Victoria goalie couldn't be faulted for the defeat, he did appear to guess wrong on the two scoring shots. At the other end, Hodge made no mistakes, was often lucky but just as often brilliant as he handled 30 shots without a miscue.

MISS CHANCES

Pelletier had only 17 shots as the Cougars outshot the Americans in every period of a game they should have won.

Nothing, however, seemed to go right for the Islanders. They messed up a number of great chances, the puck wasn't rolling for them, and they didn't have the best of the breaks in other ways. They also got weak performances from the three wingers, who ruined the effectiveness of two of their forward lines.

On the other hand, the Americans played good defensive hockey. Playing under the threat of action from coach Billy Reay if they didn't stop what he termed "rocking-chair" hockey, the Americans made the most of their chances and, with Hodge in the starring role, stopped the Cougar attacks when it counted.

EX-COUGARS SCORE

Alex Kuzma and Barton Bradley, both ex-Cougars, did the Seattle scoring on alert plays, both scoring on the short side.

Kuzma got what proved to be the winner when he started Rudy Filion off near the Victoria blueline with a pass, then rushed up on the right side for the return pass, which he golfed home. Bradley relieved steady Victoria pressure at 15.05 of the third period when he backhanded a high shot past Pelletier, who seemed to expect a pass on what started as a two-on-one break.

By that time, the Cougars should have been ahead. They missed their best chances in the second period when Americans, who drew five of the seven minor penalties, got three in a row and played two men short for more than a minute. There were times when it appeared impossible for the Victoria club to miss tying but, somehow, the puck always stayed out.

Wayne Brown skated through the Seattle team at 7.42 of the third period and was in the clear when he was pulled down from behind by Sam Lavitt. It appeared that a penalty shot was the proper call but Seattle got off with a minor penalty for Lavitt.

Americans were more aggressive than the Cougars, several of whom showed to much respect for ex-teammate Pete Durham, and that was probably the difference. There were some signs of animosity but tempers were kept well in hand although Kuzma got a third-period misconduct apparently for saying something to referee Dalton McArthur. Whether or not Kuzma will be assessed the $100 fine Reay promised if any of his players took an unnecessary misconduct penalty is not known.

Cougars are idle tonight but play four games next week in home-and-home series with Vancouver and New Westminster. Canucks are here Tuesday and the Royals on Friday.

Victoria Rinks Play Tonight In Opening of B.C. Bonspiel

By JIM TANG

Action in the 65th annual B.C. Bonspiel will start this evening although the official opening won't be made until Monday morning, when Mayor Percy Scurrah throws the "first" rock.

Because of the recorded entry of 88 rinks, which will necessitate the playing of almost 350 games, the draw committee was forced to get play started as soon as possible. Twenty-six local rinks, which were drawn against each other in extra-series games in the two primary events, consented to help out by starting early.

Four games will be played at 7 this evening and a full draw of eight games will be played at 9.30. There is also a single game tomorrow. Dal MacLeod and C. Chauvin were unable to play tonight because a member of MacLeod's rink was getting married. However, the MacLeod rink had previously arranged a practice game with Chauvin for Sunday afternoon, and both skips agreed to make it the real thing.

RUGGED SCHEDULE

Curling will be practically around the clock, starting each day at 8 a.m. and concluding at 6.30 a.m. the following day, for at least three days and, probably four. Draws were scheduled at 8 and 10.30 a.m., 1, 3.30, 6, 8.30 and 11 p.m. and 1.30 and 4 a.m.

Depending, of course, on the number of rinks getting out to the 16s and 8s in two separate events, the draw committee has estimated that about 50 draws will be needed to declare the winners in all six events. In addition, the committee has to contend with the provincial British Consols finals, which will require an additional 14 games spread over six separate draws before winners of the two knockout competitions are declared.

There are eight zone champions in Consols play and if there should be two different winners in the knockout competitions, a best-of-three final will have to be held.

Included in the entry are 36 visiting rinks. This counts Cam Earle, who is skipping some of his former Duncan clubmates and is listed as a Duncan entry although now a member of the Victoria club.

VISITORS STRONG

Victoria rinks will have to be at their best to get into the prizes. In addition to seven zone champions who have entered the bonspiel, they will have to contend with quite a number of exceptionally-strong visiting foursomes. These include such as W. Hobbs of Kelowna and Bung Cartmell and Arden Brown of Vancouver, to name three. Brown's rink took on added stature yesterday with the report that it would be skipped by Frank Avery, four times a B.C. Brier representative and recognized as one of the canniest skips in the province.

There is no clear favorite for the Consols championship against such proven campaigners as Avery, Reg Stone, Cartmell, Frenchy d'Amour, Scotty Ross and Cec Chesser.

Victoria's Tony Gutoski, the only repeat finalist from last year, is given a good chance on his home ice. However, while many of the other zone finalists are not as well known as some of the skips which were eliminated, it will be no easy task.

Dick Topping of Oliver, champion of the South Central zone, is given a fine change to come through and it might be well to give a thought to scrappy Len Harper and his Quesnel rink, champions of the Northern zone. The surprise champion, Len Peerless of Nelson, isn't given a chance in some quarters but the fact remains he went through his 16-rink zone final without losing a game against such opposition as Stone, d'Amour, British Columbia's only Brier winner, Ross and Chesser.

Other zone champions who will be on hand for the bonspiel are the Dairyland rink of Chilliwack, skipped by Bill Hoffman; H. Jordan of Kimberley, and G. Green of Vernon. Gordon Russell of Vancouver, who won out over such skips as Cartmell, Avery and Brown, will take part only in Consols play.

No decision has yet been made as to when the first Consols games will be played. This will probably depend on how the Consols rinks are faring in bonspiel play but a definite decision may be made tomorrow when delegates gather for the annual meeting of the B.C. Curling Association.

O'Hare Gains Verdict Over Mainland Belter

Brian O'Hare, popular young Victoria Fire Department slugger, pounded out a close but unanimous four-round decision over Bobby Thompson of Vancouver in the main event of last night's Greater Victoria Amateur Boxing Association card.

In a battle that had the crowd on its feet from the opening bell, O'Hare and Thompson bored in at each other and slugged it out toe-to-toe through most of the bout.

O'Hare, B.C. Silver Gloves champion, raised a welt over the eye of the ex-Golden Glover in the third round, but there were no knockdowns in the fight.

CLOSE DECISION

The two judges and the referee all gave O'Hare the decision on close counts under the point system. Two of the cards had O'Hare ahead, 79-77, while the third gave him the nod, 79-76.

In another slugfest, Jack Ordano outpointed Allan Curtis in three rounds for his second decision over the Victoria belter.

One of the closest bouts of the 10-fight card was in the 120-pound class between AB Lefebre of the RCN and Bruce McClay. Lefebre was finally given the decision over the heated protests of the small crowd on hand for the card.

Next fight card in Victoria is scheduled for March 2 when the Golden Gloves tournament will be staged at the Victoria Ballroom. The annual Tournament of Champions will be staged here April 20 and 21.

Three Reach Finals

City Badminton Stars At Best in Vancouver

Four of Victoria's top shuttle stars turned in outstanding performances in the British Columbia badminton championships at Vancouver last night with three of them gaining berths in finals of doubles events.

Mrs. Muriel Knott and Mrs. Joyce MacDonald of the Brentwood Badminton Club, who last week retained their Victoria city women's doubles title, upset the top-seeded team of Jean Waring of Calgary and Jocelyn Pease of Vancouver in a semi-final match.

The veteran Brentwood combination lost the first set, 15-8, but came back to score 15-3 and 15-5 victories over the defending champions. Mrs. Knott and Mrs. MacDonald will meet Lois Reed and Mrs. Jean Bardsley of Vancouver in the finals tonight.

BEAT CHAMPIONS

George Lane of the Brentwood club, who was dethroned as Victoria singles champion, combined with Don Davis of Seattle in the men's doubles event. Davis, 1955 member of the U.S. Thomas Cup team, and Lane scored a smashing upset in the semi-finals by ousting Canadian champions Bert Fergus and Daryl Thompson of Vancouver, 10-15, 15-11, 18-15.

Lane and Davis will clash with Randy Phillips and Bruce Benham of Vancouver in the finals.

Maureen Bray, who won her second straight Victoria women's singles title last weekend, put up a great battle against Miss Reid, four-time Canadian champion, in the semi-finals. Miss Bray almost upset her more experienced opponent before losing out in a torrid three-setter, 9-11, 11-9, 11-9.

Miss Reid will play Miss Waring, who blasted Charlotte Warren of Vancouver, 11-2, 11-0, in tonight's final.

Davis scored one of the biggest upsets of the meet when he toppled Phillips, 15-7, 15-4. Davis clashes with Johnny Bouck in the final.

Sold to Cleveland

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—The conditional sale of pitcher Duane Pillette to the Cleveland Indians was announced Friday by the Buffalo Club of the International League.

Trabert Loses

MONTREAL (BUP)—Pancho Gonzales defeated Tony Trabert 9-7, 6-3 here Friday night to stretch his lead in the touring professional tennis tour to 22-7.

Pancho Segura defeated Australian Rex Hartwig 8-3. The two-handed Ecuadorian now leads Hartwig 23-5, with one match tied.

Pils, Indians Table Boxla Amalgamation

VANCOUVER (CP)—A surprise move to increase the percentage to visiting teams was narrowly defeated at the annual meeting of the Intercity Lacrosse League Friday night.

This was the only highlight of the otherwise calm meeting that saw Carl Grauer returned as president of the league for the 1956 season.

Delegate Dunc Duff of Pils made a motion that the present percentage rate of 75 per cent for the home team and 25 per cent for the visiting team, be changed to 60 for the home and 40 for the visitors.

In the event of a win by the visiting team the percentage would be 55 for the home team and 45 for the visitors—a change from the present standard of 70 for the home and 30 for the visitors.

MOTION DEFEATED

Requiring a two-thirds majority of the 14 ballots cast it was defeated 8-6. In other business the league also tabled for further discussion the possibility of taking over the sponsorship of junior lacrosse in Vancouver.

The team delegates also promised complete support to the B.C. Lacrosse Association in the event that the West Point Military Academy lacrosse teams plays a series of games here next summer.

The expected amalgamation announcement between Pils and Mount Pleasant Indians was laid over. The team delegates said they still have to hold further meetings on the subject.

Jackson Beats Baker To Boost Ring Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Tommy Jackson swarmed over bulky Bob Baker in the middle rounds of a hotly contested scrap between high-ranking heavyweights Friday night to win a split decision in 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden. Baker weighed 214½, Jackson 194½.

Fighting in sports in his unorthodox style, Jackson carried the battle to his heavier opponent most of the time. The crowd of about 4,200 cheered and jeered as the hurricane man from New York's Far Rockaway jigged in his corner, did body bends and cut loose his famous "double uppercut."

In the early rounds of the nationally-televised fight it looked like a walk-in for Baker, ranked No. 2 among the heavyweight contenders by Ring magazine and No. 1 by the National Boxing Association.

But as the bout wore on, Jackson turned to his old swarming tricks, chasing Baker with his slapping jab and driving home telling right-hand punches.

Canucks Come Out Ahead, 5-4 As Division Leaders Tangle

In a battle of division leaders at Vancouver last night, Vancouver Canucks increased the margin held over prairie teams by the coastal clubs of the Western Hockey League, scoring the last two goals of the game to hand Calgary Stampeders their third straight setback, 5-4. Victory put Canucks ahead by seven points in the Western Division. It was the 35th win for coast clubs in inter-divisional play. Prairie clubs have won 31 times and two games have been tied.

At Winnipeg, the Warriors, with a game in hand, moved to within three points of the Stampeders by handing Brandon Regals their third loss in a row, 5-1.

Excellent crowds watched both games. Attendance at Winnipeg was 6,879, while Vancouver had its biggest crowd of the season—5,282.

Led by Ray Cyr, rapidly coming to the fore as an NHL prospect, and Pat Egan, their veteran defenceman, Canucks were full value for the points.

CATCHING UP

Cyr got a goal and three assists to make it nine points in two games this week and to boost his point total to 52, close enough to tie top to give him an outside chance for the scoring championship. Egan turned in a brilliant game on defence.

Veteran Jim McFadden, who broke a long scoring slump to get the first three goals for his club, and goalie Ray Frederick, back in the nets after a rest, were the pick of the Calgary club. Stampeders held 3-2 and 4-3 leads but couldn't hold on.

Mark Marquess, ex-Victoria Cougar who appears to have found a new lease on his hockey life since being sold to Vancouver, scored the first two goals for the Canucks.

REGALS OFF COLOR

Warriors had it all over the disorganized Regals, pouring 39 shots at goalie Lucien Dechene, 21 of them in the second period. Only veteran Doug Bentley, making his first appearance for the Regals, showed well for the losers offensively.

Winnipeg's goals were shared by five players, one of them Eric Nesterenko, making his first WHL start after being sent to Warriors by Toronto Maple Leafs in exchange for Brian Cullen.

Vikings Score Upset; Meet Totems in Final

Victoria College Vikings, trailing by two points at half-time, staged a brilliant second-half rally Friday night at Victoria High School to upset defending champion Normal School, 62-51, and gain the finals of the Inter-scholastic basketball tournament.

Vikings will meet Victoria High Totems, perennial finalists, in tonight's final at 9 p.m. The Totems ran into trouble against Royal Roads before emerging with a 53-48 decision in a ragged contest that failed to provide the excitement of the opening game.

STAGE RALLY

Outscored 18-13 in the opening quarter and still behind 25-23 at half-time, the Vikings rattled in 39 points in the final two quarters while holding the Normal school squad to 13 points in each of the third and fourth frames.

The defending champions, who defeated Victoria High in last year's final, led 35-33 in the third quarter but the Vikings broke loose for 17 points while holding Normal School to three points late in the third quarter and early in the fourth session.

Bud Rutherford, a tournament all-star while playing for Victoria High last season, topped the winners with 16 points. Gerry Montgomery led Normal School with 16 points, followed by Ernie Montgomery with 10. However, both the Montgomerys and Bob Abbott of the losers fouled out in the fourth quarter.

TOTEMS TRAIL

An off-color Victoria High squad trailed 15-13 at the end of the first quarter but established a 31-25 lead at half time and never looked back. Royal Roads outscored the winners 12-8 in the final quarter but found the deficit too big to overcome.

Royal Roads and Normal School will meet at 7.30 p.m. tonight to decide third place in the two-day tournament.

Dutchies Face Showdown with Soviets Today; Need Three-Goal Triumph To Win Puck Crown

By KEN METHERAL

CORTINA d'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Russia's methodical hockey machine drove to a 4-0 victory over the United States Friday night and set the stage for a climatic Olympic title match with Canada's Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Canadians, off form in Friday's 6-2 victory over Sweden which kept them in the race, need a three-goal margin against the unbeaten Russians when they meet at 12.30 p.m. PST today in the last game of the tournament schedule to squeeze past them in the standings on goal average. The game will be broadcast over the CBC network starting at 12.15 p.m.

Trailing the 1954 champions by a full game as a result of Tuesday's 4-1 upset at the hands of the Americans, the Dutchmen have to beat Russia to tie them on points. But a one or two-goal victory would still leave them with an inferior goal average.

The U.S. defeat, its first of the final round, sharply lengthened the odds against an American hockey title. Pitted against Czechoslovakia in a game preceding the Canada-Russia meeting, the Americans need a one-sided victory over the Czechs to catch up, unless the other two contenders play to a tie.

And there was considerable doubt Friday night whether the Americans could beat Czechoslovakia at all.

CZECHS RECOVER

Ranked in the top three at the start of the tournament, the Czechs scored a 4-3 vicory in a preliminary-round game against the Americans. Friday night they recovered from three straight defeats in the final round to drub Germany 9-3.

But Russia's conquest of the Americans indicated that the Dutchmen may have trouble fulfilling their title assignment.

Taking charge almost at the opening whistle, they dominated play with their smooth-flowing pass patterns, peppering U.S. goalie Willard Ikola who had grosstrated the Dutchmen three nights before.

The air force navigator from Eveleth, Minn., was equally brilliant Friday night but the pressure proved too much for him. A second-period goal while his team was a man short was followed by three fast tallies in the third period as American efforts to tie the game forced them to relax their defence.

The defensive - minded Swedes, who finish their schedule against Germany today, made the Dutchmen look inept with their alert fore-checking.

DEFENCE FALTERS

Aided by Canadian defensive lapses which presented them with both their goals, they held the Dutchmen to a 3-2 margin in the first period and grudgingly yielded another goal in the second frame and two more in the third.

Defenceman Jack McKenzie, the Canadian captain, fired two goals. Jim Logan, Don Rope, George Scholes and Butch Martin got the others.

Austrian Skier Wins Third Olympic Event; Toronto Pair Second

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Austria had a big day at the winter Olympics Friday as its top skier completed an amazing triple alpine victory and its figure skaters dashed Canada's hopes for its first gold medal.

Tony Sailer, handsome 21-year-old plumber from Kitzbuchel, added the downhill to his victories in the giant and special slaloms and became the first skier ever to sweep all three alpine events.

Andre Bertrand of Quebec City fell during the downhill run but finished in 3:31.2 for a creditable 24th in the field of 85 competitors from 27 countries.

In the pairs figure skating, Austria's Elisabeth (Sissy) Schwarz and Kurt Oppelt edged Toronto's Norris Bowden and Frances Dafoe by the barest of margins. The Canadians, two-time world champions, had been favored to win their first Olympic pairs title. They lost out apparently because Miss Dafoe faltered momentarily during a lift at the end of their number.

GAIN SIX POINTS

Canada earned six points from the figure skating—five by the second-place finish of the Bowden-Dafoe team and one by the sixth placing of another Toronto couple, Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul.

The Canadian team now has 12 points (based on 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the top six places in each event) and Friday moved up from 13th to 10th place in the unofficial team standing. Thirty-two countries are entered in the games.

With 21 of the 24 Olympic events completed, Russia has clinched the team standing with 101 points. However, Austria, which won two gold medals Friday and had a third-place finish in the downhill to gain 24 points, narrowed the Soviet margin. The Austrian team is second with 78½. Sweden is third with 53, Finland fourth with 46, the United States fifth with 45½ and Norway sixth with 44.

The first two heats of the four-man bobsled race were held Friday and two Swiss sleds, Franz Kapus' No. 1, and Max Angst's No. 2, were first and second. A U.S. sled piloted by Art Tyler of Rochester, N.Y., was third on the two runs down the hazardous Mount Tofana course. The final two heats will be run today.

Austria's Sailer, a daredevil who is called the "pin-up boy of the Alps," was crowned world alpine champion as a result of his remarkable triple victory.

Disdainful of the ice-crushed Tofana course, Sailer shot down the 3,460-metre course (60 yards short of two miles) at a breathtaking speed to win in two minutes, 52.2 seconds.

Amateur Leads Phoenix Golf; Stan Seventh

Jim Tom Blair III, 24-year-old amateur champion of Missouri, set the professional players on their heels Friday with a stunning 67 that gave him a 36-hole total of 136 at the halfway mark of the $15,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

The husky Blair followed up a first-round 69 with a brilliant performance that netted him four birdies and a four-under-par score. Second was Cary Middlecoff, the 1955 Masters champion, who fired a 66 for a 138 total.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver fired a 71 Friday and was in a six-way tie for seventh place with a total of 143.

Schedule and starting times for the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League games to be played tonight at the Saanichton Agricultural Hall follow:

7.30—Snooks vs. Brentwood, second game of two-game total-point series for right to represent Saanichton in the Vancouver Island playoffs.

8.30—Saanichton senior girls vs. Brentwood bantam girls.

Motors Join Steel Shares In Upturn

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrial issues generally moved fractionally higher at the close of moderate trading on the Montreal and Cana-[illegible]

A firm steel section showed Stelco and Ontario up a half each while Algoma was unchanged. In the base metals Dominion Foundries advanced three-quarters, Hudson Bay five eighths, and Noranda and Consolidated Smelters a quarter each.

In a mixed pulp and paper group gains were seen in Great Lakes, Fraser, Donohue and Abitibi.

Ford shone in the miscellaneous section, moving 7 points higher in light trade, while General Motors gained 1⅛ points.

Minor improvements were noted in BC Telephone, Gatineau, BA, Imperial Oil and CPR.

Mining issues were generally higher.

Duvan Leads Mines

TORONTO (CP)—Higher prices ruled. There was heavy trading in a few mines and seniors fared a little better than in recent sessions. The western oils won selective support and closed at their best of the day.

Refining oils had another good day. Papers, motors, manufactures and financial institutions were also ahead.

Up $1-$1.50 were Crown Zellerbach, General Dynamics, People's Credit Jewellers and Trans-Prairie Pipelines.

Among mines, Duvan was the heaviest trader for the second day turning over more than 1,000,000 shares for a 20-cent climb to $1.35. Irish Copper, Lyndhurst and Trans-Canada Explorations attracted buyers, adding 17-20 cents.

Western oil advances of between 15 and 25 cents were scored by Pacific Pete, Central Leduc, Britalta, Canadian Atlantic and Del Rio.

Trojan Makes Rally

VANCOUVER — A noon hour burst of buying took Trojan up to 2.50, and although the price dipped to 2.40 at the close it was 25 cents ahead on the day.

Quatsino at 50 cents was another copper to move ahead, but most of the others remained steady. Vananda again trading heavily dropped back to 8½ cents.

The tone among oils was better, and in the industrial list B.C. Forest Products added 25 cents at $16¾.

N.Y. Oils Boom

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made its fifth straight advance Friday with strong encouragement from oils a prime factor in the rise.

Late in the session, railroads brightened and gave some support to oils. Aircrafts were higher without emphasis. Steels ended mixed as did motors. Selected chemicals were higher.

Oils have been sought out because of excellent current earnings and the prospect of better profits to come as sales expand.

Chrysler was a weak feature. It closed off ⅞ and 76¼ as the company disclosed plans to cut back to a four-day week next week. General Motors was up 1⅛ at 45, still happy about its better than a billion dollars in profits last year.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—In quiet dealings on Montreal bond markets, some improvement was noted in the new B.C. Electric 4½ per cent bonds, trading at par and five-eighths to par and seven-eighths.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fairly active trading in flax featured business on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Prices showed some irregularity but firmed up at times. Exporters, purchasers and shippers bought fairly liberal offerings. A small lot was reported sold to Japan.

Processors and shippers bought barley at firm prices. Domestic shippers purchased oats for feed. There was little feature to the rye trade and prices declined at the close.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged.

Ford Fluctuation Highlights Week

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The feature of a week that has been marked with general firmness in the stock markets has been the action of the new Ford common stock.

[illegible] month at an issue price of $64.50, the stock was heavily oversubscribed, and in over-the-counter deals it changed hands at over the $70 mark.

Since then it has dipped gradually until at the end of this week it could be purchased at little over $63.

This meant that those who failed in the rush to secure an initial allotment are now able to buy the stock, together with the brokerage commission, at a lower price than they could have done in the first place.

Henry Ford II warned, before the issue was distributed, that the public should not expect miracles, but undoubtedly a large proportion of the 300,000 purchasers were in for a quick profit.

These are now in the process of being weeded out, and it will not be long before the Ford stock is in the hands of people who want it for investment purposes. When that point is reached the true market value of the stock will be revealed.

London Stocks Gain

LONDON (Reuters)—Reaction to Britain's improved gold and dollar reserves helped give the markets a better tone. Business, however, was slow and buying selective.

Government securities opened fractionally harder but failed to improve.

Small gains predominated in industrials but interest was confined mainly to the leaders. Imperial Tobacco was firm in anticipation of next week's dividend.

Coppers were mixed, tins and oils quiet.

Legal Fray in Store On CNR Assessment

A strenuous, complicated legal battle appeared in store yesterday as the Canadian National Railways began an appeal before a court of revision against a $3,462,580 Ogden point assessment.

City assessment, if upheld, could bring Victoria approximately $93,000 in taxes.

The CNR was represented by [illegible] tion commissioner of the railway, and H. F. Hutton.

Mr. Kelsey said the CNR objected to the assessment on two grounds: that it was excessive and incorrect and that the CNR was wrongfully and illegally assessed in that the property belonged to the Crown.

T. P. O'Grady, city solicitor challenged the right of a court of revision to judge on a point of law, namely the taxability of the property.

But Forrest L. Shaw, chairman of the court of revision, took the view that the court would be considering facts, not law.

On the insistence of Mr. O'Grady, Mr. Kelsey took an oath before proceeding.

The CNR, he said, was merely entrusted with the property as manager.

Cross-examining Mr. Kelsey, Mr. O'Grady asked him whose tracks were on the Ogden point piers.

"The Canadian Government Railways'," said Mr. Kelsey.

"You mean the Canadian National Railways."

"No, I mean the Canadian Government Railways."

"Who uses them?"

"The Canadian Government Railways."

"It's the Canadian National Railways that's appealing this assessment, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Mr. Kelsey, "it's a descriptive term."

"It's a corporation, isn't it?"

"No, I don't know."

Gifts Bring Temporary Cheer

Mrs. Mary Steven, 86 . . . "We are living hand-to-mouth."

'Terrible To Sit and Think'

Here is another chapter in the continuing series by a Daily Colonist staff reporter on the problems of old age pensioners. They are the outcome of his experiment in living as the pensioner has to live. The purpose is to illuminate the pensioners' problems and tell of their battle against heart-breaking odds.

BY CHRIS FOSTER

The unknown old gentleman with gaunt face and sunken eyes whose story was begun in this column yesterday, has been found.

I also found his wife, blind, 86-year-old Mary, sitting in a rocking chair by the window in their one-room home.

I can now add a little to the heart-tugging observations sent me by a citizen wishing to remain anonymous.

The man is 83-year-old Frank Steven, who came to Victoria with his wife nine years ago.

He was born in Montreal but lost his Canadian citizenship while working for a telephone company in Jamaica.

Therefore he and his wife must wait another 11 years before they can qualify for the Canadian pension.

They now live on $72.50 a month. The city welfare pays $69 and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind pays the remainder.

The couple pays $30 a month for a room and about $10 a month for fuel for an oil stove in winter.

They also pay $3.78 for a telephone, a necessity because Mrs. Steven is liable to sudden illness.

This leaves them a little less than $30 a month for food and the other necessities of life. It is on this scant amount that they have been living for the last nine years.

This probably explains the observations of my correspondent who said: 'Five years ago he was a tall upstanding man, with an aristocratic face showing strain and poverty but meeting people with a high head.

"When I saw this old gentleman the other day he was hobbling lamely, bowed, one shoulder down, flat-footed and in disreputable boots. His terribly old coat was almost gone threadbare and sagging. He wheezed as he walked, and his face was a shock, fallen in, gaunt, staring-eyed and with a sagging lower jaw."

When I saw Mr. and Mrs. Steven yesterday I gave them $25 from the Colonist fund; clothing, half a dozen jars of jam and a hand-knitted shawl as items donated by sympathetic citizens.

They were overjoyed at the jam and Mr. Steven said: "Wonderful, wonderful! We both love jam."

Cupping his right ear, because he is a little deaf, he said: "People in Victoria are very gracious, very gracious indeed.

"If it wasn't for their kindness we couldn't pull through. Every Wednesday the ladies' auxiliary for the blind sends a car for us.

They come to see us all the time. They are a lovely lot. The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire are very gracious too.

"One dear family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harper, are very precious. They never fail."

Rocking gently in her chair, clasping and unclasping her hands, Mrs. Steven said: "It's terrible to have to sit down and think of it, though. It's nice to be a little independent.

"We can't indulge in anything at all. We are living hand to mouth."

Gently Mr. Steven said: "Yes I realize that dear."

Hanging over the double iron bedstead I saw the explanation of the wonderful courage of Mr. and Mrs. Steven who I hope sincerely will forgive me for disclosing their identity in this story.

"I give unto them Eternal Life," said the text. Close by was another: "The gift of God is Eternal Life through Jesus Christ."

They told me when the weather was good they went to the Plymouth Brethren, nearby on Kings road.

Mr. Steven, who joined the army in Montreal in 1914 but was not fit enough to be sent overseas, made me aware of the value of a cent.

"We're not big bread eaters," he said, "so I generally buy one loaf for 14 cents. I could get two loaves for 25 cents, saving half a cent on each loaf, but we tried that and found some was left over and went hard."

Such are the worries of some of our elderly citizens.

Turning to my own temporary problems, I again spent the day eating the leftovers of the stew and bread, margarine and honey.

This was Friday's budget:

Bread [illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	2[illegible]
Total	35[illegible]
Spent so far including today	$36.[illegible]6
Balance	$13.84

Victoria Homes Used as Models For California

California architects, long known for their highly advanced concepts of modern home design, look to Victoria for architectural trends.

This came as a surprise to T. A. Denny, managing director of Standard Furniture Co., who was told of the high regard held by American planners for local dwelling design while visiting a number of housing projects and model homes in the San Diego area recently.

In a letter to a Chamber of Commerce official Mr. Denny said he learned that 'many of the architects and home development people from southern California make a point of going to Victoria to study and take pictures of new homes in the Uplands and Saanich area.'

This is a real 'boost' for Victoria architects, he said.

Debt Reduction Claim 'Poppycock' Says Gibbs

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

P. A. GIBBS

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was accused yesterday of deliberately misleading the public about the province's debt reduction picture.

Financial critic P. A. Gibbs (Lab., Oak Bay) said the public accounts showed beyond a shadow of a doubt that the provincial debt today was $261,000,000 compared to $223,000,000 in 1953 and $240,000,000 in 1952.

"A lot of the premier's statements are just poppycock," the former Oak Bay reeve said during the budget debate.

The Oak Bay member's debt figures for last year were worked out on "identically the same basis" as in 1952, excluding the guarantees to municipalities.

Main point of his attack on the government's accounting system was the separation of the provincial debt figures from those called 'contingent liabilities.'

FALSE COMPARISON

He accused the premier of making "a false comparison" of statistics and said that in comparing present figures with those before 1952 Premier Bennett was "misleading the public."

According to the budget the province will spend $2[illegible],000,000. Mr. Gibbs said but only $191,000,000 would be collected in revenues.

"In other words the premier is working on a deficit except for the surplus left him by Byron Johnson," Mr. Gibbs stated.

ALL PADDING

"These estimates are all padding, to make the taxpayers think we have more money than we know what to do with," he charged. "Departmental estimates are totally unreliable."

He pointed out that the expenditure for hospital insurance for the financial year ending March 31 last was $2,000,000 less than estimated.

"What happened there?" asked the member.

"We weren't sick enough," replied Health Minister Eric Martin.

HEADED WHERE?

Turning back to debt Mr. Gibbs asked where "this non-borrowing government is headed." The debt would have to be paid some day.

Mr. Gibbs' hottest run-in with the premier came when he said former finance minister and economic adviser Einar Gunderson was in New York trying to get some low-interest loans for B.C.

"He's there today," he said.

"That statement is wrong. I ask the member to withdraw," said the premier.

OPPOSITION ROARED

"I withdraw the statement, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Gunderson was there yesterday," came back Mr. Gibbs, and the opposition roared.

"That's wrong," said the premier. "Mr. Gunderson and Mr. Fisher, deputy minister of finance J. V. Fisher, are in Ottawa."

"Well, I'll put it a different way," Mr. Gibbs stated. "Is it true that Gunderson will go to New York to seek loans?"

"I'm not going to answer that!" Premier Bennett told him.

Would Cost $60,000

City Workers Ask 12-Cent Increase

"Outside" workers employed by the city asked yesterday for a wage increase of 12 cents an hour across the board.

City Manager [illegible] who met the outside workers' negotiating committee to receive and discuss its requests, estimated that a 12-cent increase would be equivalent on an average to about 7.5 per cent.

Computation of the possible total effect on the city's wage bill, he said, was complicated by a proposed scale of annual increments prepared in the past few months.

The negotiating committee received the proposed increment scale at the meeting and took it away for study.

Without taking the scale of increments into consideration, however, a 12-cent an hour wage increase probably would cost the city slightly more than $60,000 a year. There are about 240 outside workers, and more at some seasons.

MLA Returning to School To Take Degree in Law

By BRUCE LOWTHER

To practice as well as make the laws is the goal of Tony Gargrave, youngest member of the B.C. Legislature, who plans to enroll at Victoria College next fall.

He hopes to enter the legal profession by 1961.

Whether he continues as an MLA is "up to my constituents." But if they re-elect him the 29-year-old CCF member for Mackenzie faces the awesome prospect of commuting between UBC law school in Vancouver and legislative sessions here daily during the last three years of his studies.

FASCINATED BY LAW

"The law has a fascination for me, and so has the relationship of the individual to the law," he said yesterday.

Mr. Gargrave brought before the House the cases of Mrs. Mary Booth whose $1,400 home was sold for taxes without her knowledge, and Robert John Fraser, whose beating by two RCMP constables caused him to make a false confession of robbery.

Mr. Gargrave went to university after the Second World War but was "too restless" to stay and has worked in sawmills and logging camps since. In recent years he has taken UBC summer courses and correspondence courses.

"Dean G. F. Curtis of UBC law school has given me a lot of personal encouragement for which I am grateful," he said. "If I make it I plan to practice at Powell River."

It Was Earliness of Frost Which Did the Damage

Injury to Apparently Hardy Trees Shocked Gardeners

This is the fifth article of a series of five contributed to The Daily Colonist by W. Herbert Warren, Victoria park administrator, dealing with winter losses to city gardeners and how they may be avoided in future. Other articles appeared Sunday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week and are useful as clippings for future reference.

By W. HERBERT WARREN

One of the most shocking things about the November frost was the extent of the injury to seemingly hardy trees.

While the common types of forest trees apparently suffered no ill effects, the injury to mature flowering trees was very severe with the exception of the native flowering dogwood, hawthorns and mountain ash.

The frost killed most of the bloom on flowering peaches, plums, almonds, apricots, cherries and crabapple trees. Only one or two hardy species of flowering cherries will bloom.

In many cases both the flower buds and leaf buds have been killed so that adventitious buds will have to be formed before green growth reappears.

Again it was the earliness of the frost rather than any inherent lack of hardiness which caused the injury, for many species of flowering crabapples, quite hardy in colder provinces, were severely injured, some killed outright.

Many double pink flowering, purple leafed plums and some flowering cherries succumbed. Shirofugen, a beautiful Oriental cherry with double white flowers which turn pink as they age was very severely injured. Japanese flowering apricot prunus mume was killed outright.

What to do about it is quite a problem for the large garden owner. Trees killed to the ground may sucker and grow again. If they are growing on their own roots and not on a wild stock they may generate a new head; but if propagated on a wild stock they should be removed.

In checking the condition of many trees we find that the trunk is sound; but the branches have been injured. All one can do is to behead the tree and cut back into sound wood. This is drastic; but simple and there is no alternative.

In checking for injury, look particularly at the south side and on the undersides of the branches. It is here that injury appears to be more severe. Trees which have suffered less severely are more difficult to prune because one must go over all the small branches and remove dead growth back into the second or third year old wood or even further until one gets to sound wood.

To end this recitation of plant loss on a dismal note would not be in keeping with gardening tradition, for gardeners like farmers are ever hopeful of better conditions just around the corner.

In older gardens losses may provide the opportunity for doing a major pruning operation long overdue, on shrubs in particular. It may also provide an opportunity to replace lost plants with something more worthwhile. Because of shortages it is desirable to place replacement orders early.

Liberal use of annuals is suggested in the spring to fill up vacant spots where losses have been sustained.

Assistance of Mr. E. H. Lohbrunner, local nurseryman, is gratefully acknowledged in the preparation of these articles.

Halibut Steaks With Celery Sauce

Finely flavored halibut steaks keep moist and flaky when broiled quickly. These treats from the deep are complimented by a subtly seasoned celery sauce flecked with bright bits of pimento. Young Toronto Horsewoman Dreams of Calgary Stampede

BY OLI DAUM

TORONTO (CP) — Eighteen year-old Gwen Cooper says she would rather talk horses than sleep, but when she does bed down for the night she dreams of the Calgary Stampede.

The pert strawberry blonde, who loves everything that's western, wants to entertain there however rather than be entertained. She has a spirited white stallion which, she said in an interview, does some of the most difficult tricks a horse can perform.

The petite telephone operator said her Apache Chief is one of only four horses she knows of able to sit down with a rider from a standing position. Others sit up from a lying position.

21 TRICK REPERTOIRE

Another of Apaches difficult tricks is to lie down and let a person stretch out on top of his back. Gwen said not many horses will stand for that.

"He has a repertoire of 21 tricks. If I can get our performances perfected and if I can save enough money, Apache and I will go to the Stampede this year."

She bought the four-year-old horse last October on the instalment plan from his trainer, Peter Cowboy Sluse of nearby Richmond Hill.

Since then she has been practising with Apache in the hope that he will soon be ready to join her act. For some years she has performed at jamborees as a western song artist and rope twirler. Many of the songs she sings are her own compositions. Song writing comes easily to her, she said, but spinning a rope is a bit more difficult.

HOURS OF PRACTICE

She practised many hours before she learned to spin a flat rope around her body changing hands behind her back and more time before she was able to spin a rope simultaneously in each hand. She also spins a rope from her teeth.

In Arizona [illegible] Gwen, is better known as "Annie." During her two-week vacation last year at a guest ranch, she stuffed thistles in when she got back to the ranch [illegible]

"I didn't know until then that cows there will attack human beings who aren't on horseback or on a truck or something," Gwen said.

By the time she had a chance to line [illegible] a picture a cow had its sights set on her. Luckily for Gwen the animal got tangled in the cactus and she nightailed it back to safety.

Decision Deferred On Evidence Plea

Supreme Court Justice A. D. McFarlane yesterday reserved judgment on an application to obtain evidence of two mar riages in South America of the late Robert Dunsmuir.

James Audain of Victoria entered the application. He is defending a libel suit launched against him by his cousin, Robin Dunsmuir, a son of Robert and a grandson of Sir James Dunsmuir, former lieutenant-governor of B.C.

Mr. Dunsmuir is claiming $50,000 in [illegible] because he [illegible] things about his fathers mar riages in Argentina and Chile in 1915 and 1920 which have held him up to ridicule and contempt.

A recent book of Mr. Audain's, "From Coal Mine to Castle" is mainly concerned with the history of the Dunsmuir family over-time major stockholders in the coal and railway industry of B.C. and western United States.

Through counsel, George Gregory, Mr. Audain asked permission to get evidence in Argentina and Chile to support what he wrote about the mar riages.

A. de B. McPhillips, counsel for Mr. Dunsmuir, opposed the application.

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

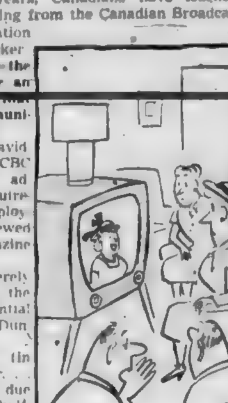

During recent years, Canadians have learned to expect almost anything from the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. But this revelation came as a real shocker.

Employees of the CBC have to swear an oath on the Bible that they will not communicate with the press!

Chairman A. Davidson Dunton of the CBC board of governors admitted the oath requirement for CBC employees, when interviewed for a national magazine recently.

"The oath is merely taken to assure the security of confidential information," Mr. Dunton stated.

The oath reads (in part): "I do swear . . . I will not, without due authority in that behalf, disclose and make known any matter or thing which comes to my knowledge by reason of my employment by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, so help me God."

"There goes her rating."

And this in a country which calls itself democratic!

Schools Abandon Children's Books

TORONTO (CP)—"Little Black Sambo," a young Indian boy who outwitted a lion deep in the jungle and reduced it to butter and pancakes, has been barred from Toronto schools.

Sambo must rest within the covers of the book written by a Scots woman for her two school-age daughters more than 50 years ago.

The board of education Thursday night decreed by a vote of 14 to 2 that Sambo is not good reading for Toronto's school children.

The board's action followed presentation of a brief by a Negro-parent delegation which described the story as a cause of anguish to all Negroes.

They said the book created tension, shame, hardships and ridicule for them when they were in school.

Schools superintendent Z. S. Phimister opposed the move. He said Sambo is essentially an heroic story "about a little boy who outwits fierce tigers in the jungle and then enjoys a huge meal of pancakes and butter."

Sambo was written in 1898 by Mrs. Helen Bannerman, who died in 1946 at the age of 83. She was the wife of an English doctor who served in India. She wrote the story at sea while returning to India from a trip to Scotland and sent it to her two daughters.

Friends who saw it in Scotland urged her to publish it. She did finally, with the stipulation that it always be in small-book form because she recalled that as a child she always wanted a small book to carry.

Sambo was discussed in the debate in reply to the speech from the throne in the Ontario legislature Friday.

Allan Grossman, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto St. Andrew, asked Education Minister Dunlop if the province was going to withdraw the book from all Ontario schools because of Toronto board's action.

Mr. Dunlop said his department will give serious consideration to the matter.

Direct National Voice In Farm-Labor-CCF Link

By BILL MAVOR
Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—Proposed formation of a new political alliance to give organized labor a direct voice in national politics was approved in principle here yesterday at the district convention of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

But action on the proposal offered by Vancouver and Courtenay locals was postponed for one year.

The plan calls for inception of a federated farm-labor party by amalgamation of farm organizations, the CCF and the trade union movement.

Delegates shelved the motion until next year's convention when Andy Smith, political action committee chairman, said the time is inopportune to bring such a matter before the Canadian Labor Congress, to be formed in April by the merger of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

There is also no information at present on whether the CCF would go along with such a move, he explained.

Delegates, who became bogged down in lengthy debate on constitution and by-laws, voted to extend sessions to this morning to complete consideration of various committee reports and resolutions.

Joe Morris, IWA president, made it clear the union will continue organizational activities in Alberta where membership is now only 300 out of a potential 7,500.

When a delegate questioned whether organization in Alberta was advisable, Mr. Morris replied that a job couldn't be done by thinking of dollars and cents and that the IWA is prepared to fight for Alberta.

IWA membership on the Pacific coast is 30,300 of a 34,650 potential. B.C. interior membership is 3,860 of a 7,500 potential.

Convention delegates voted to continue the $1-a-month strike fund assessment.

A-Bombs Patrol U.S. Skies

WASHINGTON (UP) — The air force hinted yesterday that its heavy bombers are patrolling the skies armed with atomic bombs ready to strike a devastating blow at any country that attacks the United States.

It also disclosed that fighter-interceptors guarding American cities against surprise attack soon will be armed with the latest type of nuclear weapons.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, air force chief of staff, threw out a broad hint that American bombers already are carrying nuclear bombs.

Discussing "the weapons carried in aircraft," he said "it is only common sense that whatever weapons our air force uses must be readily available" because "instant readiness means survival" in the atomic age.

In an apparent attempt to reassure the public about the danger of accidents, he said the air force has been in "the nuclear bomb business" for more than 10 years and the chances of accidental explosions are "so remote as to be incalculable."

MLA Going Back to School

He's been helping to make laws for several years and now Tony Gargrave, 29-year-old CCF MLA for Mackenzie riding, plans to go back to school in the fall to learn how to practice law. He will enroll at Victoria College with the goal of entering the legal profession by 1961. See story Page 13.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Choking Death Accident

Victor A. Bonnett, 212 Douglas, strangled to death after choking on his food in a restaurant at Maple Bay, near Duncan, Thursday night.

An inquest jury yesterday found he had met his death accidentally, while travelling the eight miles from Maple Bay to King's Daughters' hospital in Duncan.

Mr. Bonnett, an employee of Blue Bird Cabs here, was visiting Duncan with his wife, Martha.

The couple and two friends, W. G. McNiven of North Burnaby and Ernest Colclough of Haney, entered the Maple Inn for dinner about 8.45 p.m.

Logger Fights For His Life

Saanich logger Thomas Facey, 24, of 3855 Tillicum, who suffered severe brain injuries in a woods accident at Langford yesterday, was still fighting against heavy odds for his life late last night.

St. Joseph's Hospital authorities said he was still unconscious and in critical condition following prolonged brain surgery.

Archbishop Pleads For Humane Killing

Immediate introduction of legislation providing for humane slaughtering of animals was requested by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton in a letter to Premier W. A. C. Bennett yesterday.

The request came four days after Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC, Victoria) demanded similar legislation and urged a Royal commission into the slaughtering, handling and inspection of all meats for human consumption.

Full support for the archbishop's suggestion was voiced last night by the Canadian Council for Animal Welfare and the SPCA in Victoria.

The archbishop said that for many years, he has been "saddened by the reflection that many unfortunate animals are subjected to much pain and misery."

He said many people feel that this "unnecessary suffering" is due to lack of modern, humane methods of slaughtering, such as those required by law in England and Australia.

"I would respectfully ask in the name of the Anglican Church, as well as for a great number of citizens, that legislation be introduced at once making the humane slaughtering of animals obligatory throughout our province," the archbishop said.

"All my clergy are in agreement with me in making this request—that those dumb creatures who minister to our comforts and necessities be treated with the utmost compassion."

LEAD ASKED

B.C. should lead the way in introduction of such legislation, said Mrs. Jan Zach, president of the animal welfare group. She felt the legislation could be incorporated into the provincial meat inspection act.

Difficulties are implementation of the legislation in isolated areas, and the expense of installing mechanical killing devices or gas chambers. In the case of gas chambers, carbon monoxide gas renders the animal unconscious, during which time it is killed.

Some B.C. packinghouses use "stunners" to kill animals, she said, but others "use the same methods for sheep and pigs that have been used for centuries; they cut the throats of sheep and hang pigs up alive, then cut off the meat."

Eden Arrives for Talks With Canadian Leaders

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Eden said on his arrival here Friday night he will have "many matters" but "no problems" to talk over with Canadian leaders.

Homburg in hand, he stepped from an RCAF Dakota to be greeted by Prime Minister St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Lionel Massey, secretary and son of Governor-General Vincent Massey.

Sir Anthony described his talks with President Eisenhower in Washington as "most useful" and said it was a pleasure to be back "in your great country." He was last here as foreign secretary with Sir Winston Churchill in 1954.

Photographers crowded forward as Eden, wearing a blue coat trimmed with a fur collar, stepped down from the plane in front of a new air force hangar at Uplands airfield and Mr. St. Laurent had a little difficulty getting through the crowd to greet him.

Inside the warm hangar, Eden shook hands with members of the diplomatic corps and then stepped before a microphone to say a few words. He was in obvious good spirits.

Sir Anthony is scheduled to lunch with Mr. St. Laurent at the latter's home today but he has no other engagements until Monday, when he will address Parliament.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd arrived 2½ hours later from Chicago where he had spoken earlier in the day.

News to Husband

Judy Garland Seeks Divorce

JUDY GARLAND

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP)—Judy Garland filed a surprise divorce suit against her producer husband, Sid Luft, Friday—and even Luft said, "This is news to me."

The chubby singing star had given Hollywood the idea her nearly four-year marriage to Luft was a fairly happy one, but she sent attorney Jerry Giesler into court here late Friday to ask for a divorce on grounds of extreme mental cruelty.

When Luft returned to their Holmby Hills home at 6.45 p.m. from his office, Judy and the children were gone.

But he had no idea why they were absent until informed of the divorce suit.

"This is baloney," he said. "She left no note or anything. I just got home and haven't even looked around to see if her clothes are gone.

"We didn't have any fight. This is a blow to me.

"The only reason I can see is that Judy hasn't been feeling too hot lately."

Senators Protest

Chinese Trade Hint Stirs Hornets' Nest

(From UP and CP)

WASHINGTON—Sir Anthony Eden touched off a round of protests in Congress yesterday by calling for a "step-by-step" relaxation of curbs on Allied trade with Red China.

The British prime minister told a news conference he had asked President Eisenhower to consider a plan to put trade with Red China "on a par" with western trade with Russia. He said present policy works hardships on Britain and other Empire nations.

Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have promised to study the proposal—which already is under fire from Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland and other advocates of a tough Red trade policy.

FIRMLY OPPOSED

Senator Styles Bridges of the Senate Republican policy committee, firmly opposed Eden's suggestion.

"Communist China has a lot to atone for before the United States considers any 'improved' trade program," he said.

Eden also told reporters the British government feels it might be desirable to increase the number of United Nations observers in the demilitarized zones of the Palestine area to keep peace.

He said it would be up to the UN and to Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian head of the UN truce supervisory team in the area, whom he praised for "a magnificent job in the most difficult conditions."

CHICAGO—British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd said here yesterday Great Britain and the United States did not enter into any secret pacts during this week's talks between the two nations.

Lloyd said the United States' foreign aid program had been a "tremendous factor in saving the free world."

He declined to comment on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' "brink of war" remarks.

On Cyprus, he said, Britain favored a "gradual process" for the country and warned that Britain 'cannot carry on our commitments to the free world without Cyprus."

Peron Blames 'Oil War'

MILAN, Italy (UP)—Juan D. Peron, writing in an Italian magazine, yesterday blamed the Vatican and an "oil war" between the United States and Britain for his ouster as president of Argentina.

Premier 'Favorable' To Help for VCs

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has promised to give "favorable consideration" to helping B.C. Victoria Cross winners attend the June centennial in London of the Commonwealth's highest valor award.

Asked yesterday whether provincial government financial assistance would be provided, Mr. Bennett said: "Favorable consideration will be given by this government to any VC winner in the province who wants to go to the celebrations but cannot afford to make the trip."

New Blasts from Siberia Prolong Europe's Icy Agony

LONDON (AP) — New blasts from Siberia headed for Europe Friday night to prolong the great freeze that already has claimed more than 100 lives.

Weathermen warned of the new threat just as the icebound continent expected relief in its worst winter of the 20th century.

From behind the Iron Curtain came hints of a disastrous fuel shortage. Poland's Communist government called immediate talks on saving coal and ordered bonuses to boost output from the mines.

Frigid gales scattered coastal shipping around the continent and even paralyzed the Mediterranean port of Marseille.

Natives Shove Queen's Car To Start It After Embarrassing Hitch on Dirt Road

KADUNA, Nigeria (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh got stuck in their Rolls-Royce Friday on a dirt road under the tropical African sun.

The enormous, open car clunked to an embarrassing halt after leaving ceremonies at the Parliament House of northern Nigeria. The chauffeur got nowhere trying to start it.

While the young British monarch and her husband sweated it out in the fierce sun, a delighted group of Africans fell in behind the Rolls-Royce and pushed until the engine started.

Before the "great white Queen" addressed the Parliament, she attended another ceremony at which more than 5,000 youngsters from the wilds of north Nigeria screamed out their joy at laying eyes on her.

They presented the royal couple with little tribal robes to take to Buckingham Palace for Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

The seven-year-old heir apparent to the British throne got a gift even more exciting than a space suit—a deep violet burnous and headdress embroidered in silver. His five-year-old sister got a crimson kanuri tribal tunic.

Both of them got black ostrich feather sandals and peacock fans.

During Friday's "children's hour" in a vast arena in this tropical city, a sleepy little African donkey went into a wild west act that stole the show for awhile.

When the monarch and her husband were strolling through a native village set up for their benefit, a 10-year-old in a white tunic and trousers whizzed along the length of the "street," his donkey rarin' and buckin' under him.

The youngster somehow managed to retain both his seat and his dignity — while the Royal couple roared with laughter.

The 5,500 children who gathered here are the sons and daughters of Moslem "knights" and half-naked warriors from Nigeria's north, which still lives chiefly in the manner of the Middle Ages.

When the Queen and the duke paraded through the specially-built mud-thatched village, boy and girl dancers whirled around them, sprang yelling into the air, and did cartwheels and backward somersaults.

Along the street, a 12-year-old boy dressed in a leopard skin twanged on a guitar-type instrument called a "molo." Another lad, clad in a cowhide suit, strummed a lyre - shaped instrument made of bamboo.
